

Ford Tells 12 Points

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford outlined a 12-point voluntary program Tuesday night for Americans to become inflation fighters and energy savers and warned Congress he may propose tougher measures if it balks at his economic proposals.

In a national radio-television speech at the Future Farmers of America convention here, the President called on citizens to postpone unnecessary borrowing, save more, shop for bargains and drive more slowly.

He declared that "a great citizens' mobilization has begun" in the wake of his economic proposals to Congress a week ago but chided law makers and other critics for their lukewarm response to his proposals.

Noting that some said he had offered "only a marshmallow" instead of asking the nation to "bite the bullet," Ford declared that Congress rejected a proposed delay in federal pay raises and hasn't "shown much appetite for the other 'marshmallows' in my latest message" that included a 5 per cent surtax.

"But if they don't like my menu, I may be back with some tough turkey," the President said, adding "I sense that the American people are hungry for some tougher stuff to chew tonight."

Ford's Kansas City speech marked the start of a two-day four-state trip, with appearances scheduled Wednesday here and in Nebraska, South Dakota, and Indiana aimed at giving a boost to sagging Republican prospects in the Nov. 5 elections.

In his speech, Ford called for creation of local citizens' action committees, including labor and management representatives in every community to report by Thanksgiving "which plants, stores or other enterprises are doing the best job of holding the line on costs and prices."

He said he would then award them flags bearing the anti-inflation "WIN" emblem — "Whip Inflation Now!" — to individuals, companies and other groups that fight inflation and save energy.

He also urged every governor to form a statewide "WIN Committee" to coordinate the voluntary anti-inflation efforts and said this will "lead to greater civic efforts by millions of Americans and a focused awareness of what directions public policy should take toward economic justice for all."

In listing ways ordinary citizens can fight inflation, the President added two recommendations — reduce waste and guard health — to the 10 points recommended by his Citizens' Action Committee to Fight Inflation headed by columnist Sylvia Porter.

Its 10 recommendations are:

— "Bring budgeting back in style" by balancing family budgets and expecting government officials to do the same.

— Postpone unnecessary borrowing and wait for interest rates to come down "as they will."

— "Save as much as you can — and watch your money grow."

— "Conserve energy" by observing the 55-mile speed limit using public transit and car pools and walking more.

Business and labor should only raise prices or wages to the extent that costs or services absolutely require.

— "Insist on productivity improvements where you work" to waste less time and material.

— "Shop wisely, look for bargains ... and brag about the fact you are a bargain hunter."

— Work to eliminate "outmoded regulations that keep costs of goods and services high and to enforce regulations that advance efficiency, health and safety."

— "Plant WIN gardens for yourself or within your community" and pool other skills.

— Assist recycling programs and reuse scrap materials.

Inmates Stage Protest, Refuse To Go To Cells

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

Six inmates at the State Penitentiary remained sitting in the recreation yard refusing to return to their cells early Wednesday in protest over the placing of 10 inmates in the adjustment center Monday night.

Originally 17 inmates had occupied the yard, but as time went on their numbers dwindled. Those who voluntarily returned to their cells were escorted by Capt. David Watson and Assistant Warden of Programming Jim Shaddock.

Joseph Vitek, director of correctional services, said 17 inmates who had been involved in a massive work stoppage Tuesday, checked out of their cells between 3:15 and 3:30 p.m., saying they were returning to work, but instead went to the recreation yard and refused to leave.

Vitek said prison personnel were in the yard with the inmates, observing them from a distance.

Vitek said no decision had been made concerning the men in the recreation yard, saying Prison Officials would "wait and see. As time passes, the situation may change."

He said officials were hoping the situation would "resolve itself."

Vitek said the work stoppage began about 8:20 a.m. when inmates began asking to be put back in their cells after having reported for work.

Stoppage Is Protest
The stoppage was apparently in protest of the placing of 10 inmates in the adjustment center and the present "good time" laws.

Good time laws determine how much time a prisoner gets off his sentence for good behavior.

Vitek said the men were placed in the adjustment center after "thorough intelligence information and visual observation" indicated the inmates posed "a clear and present danger" to the other inmates and the institution.

'Vicious' Weapons Found
The cells of the ten men were searched, Vitek said, and "violent and vicious" weapons, such as clubs and knives and drug injection paraphernalia were confiscated.

Vitek said they had received information that there was to be some sort of demonstration or incident Tuesday or Wednesday and that the 10 men taken to the adjustment center were to be involved.

The adjustment center is a separate building where prisoners can be isolated from the rest of the inmate population.

Vitek said he received Tuesday afternoon a petition signed by one inmate on behalf of "Inmates For Humane Conditions of Servitude," complaining about the state's good time laws.

The petition said the present good time laws create arbitrary, capricious and oppressive conditions and do not "allow us any realistic rehabilitation opportunities."

The petition asked that a member or members of the appropriate legislative committee meet with the inmate population at the prison auditorium no later than Friday, Oct. 18.

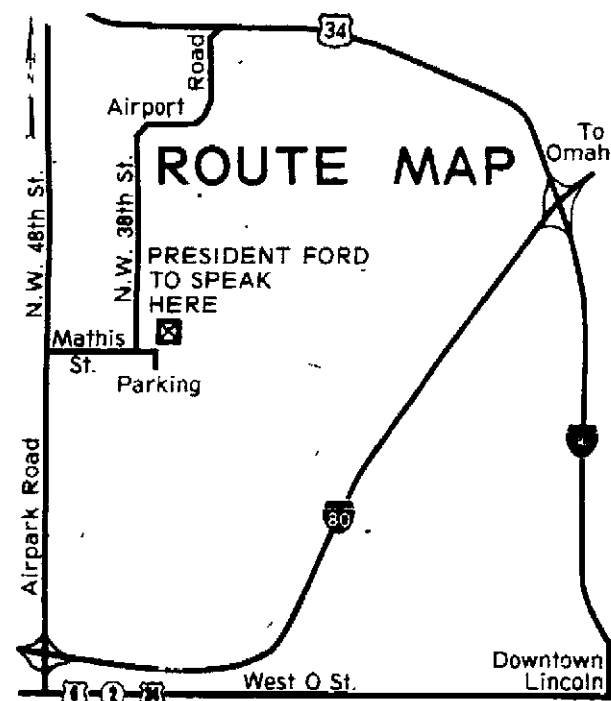

The petition stated that because of a "relative lack of power to insure that we will be heard" a work stoppage would go in effect Tuesday and its length would be determined by the response or lack of response from the Legislature.

Tuesday 85% to 90% of the inmates participated in the work stoppage, Vitek said, adding that they were given the opportunity several times throughout the day to return to their jobs.

Isolation Won't End

Asked if there were any circumstances under which the 10 men in isolation would be released to meet the demands of the protesters in the recreation yard, Vitek responded, "None."

Vitek said the prisoners were given their evening meal in their cells instead of being taken to the dining area.

How To See Ford

Police Friday distributed maps to news media showing north and south approaches to the site of President's Gerald Ford's Lincoln speech.

To approach from the south motorists should take Interstate 80 or West O to N.W. 48th, take N.W. 48th to Mathis St., and then turn right to find parking near the airport tower, where the flatbed trucks for Ford's address will be sitting.

To approach from the north motorists should take Hwy. 34 to the Airport Road, which becomes N.W. 38th, to the airport tower speech site.

The activities are scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. Air Force One, carrying Ford, is slated to arrive shortly after 3 p.m.

Direct bus service will also be offered from downtown Lincoln for a 30c-fare. Buses will leave at 15-minute intervals from 11th and N from 12:30 p.m. until 1:45.

Buses will also leave from 15th and N at 12:30, 1, 1:15 and 1:45 p.m.

Ford Rejects Request For Troops For Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Francis W. Sargent mobilized the National Guard on Tuesday and asked President Ford to send federal troops to help end racial troubles in Boston.

Ford rejected the plea, saying federal troops should only be used as a "last resort."

Sargent, in his third news conference of the day, said he "regretted" the President's decision.

He said Ford apparently "sees his responsibility differently than I do. I don't want the situation to get beyond our control. And that's why I asked for limited, specialized personnel

... to have the federal presence in Boston."

In calling for federal aid, Sargent had cited "stabblings, stonings and disorders" in schools on Tuesday, the latest in a month-long series of disruptions. Most of Tuesday's disorders were in the predominantly white section of Hyde Park.

Boston's racial troubles were triggered by a school desegregation plan requiring the busing of 18,200 pupils that took effect Sept. 12.

Sargent, in response to a reporter's question, said some incidents of violence were "coordinated ... they have been prompted." However, he did not give specifics and said he does not believe there was a conspiracy to create trouble in the Boston schools.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said in New York that he agreed with the White House decision that federal troops should be sent only as a last resort.

"I think that's a reasonable response," he said. "I've seen violence before — I've seen it in my family and I've seen it all over and I so abhor it in every respect."

Sargent said the Guard mobilization was a precautionary measure.

Sen. Marvel Reveals Campaign Frustrations

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State Sen. Richard Marvel, Republican gubernatorial candidate, Tuesday tossed out the routine luncheon speech and vented some of the personal frustrations of his campaign.

Marvel told the Lincoln Rotary Club in an unusual speech he was "not that hot about entering this race" in the first place.

A political science professor on a leave of absence from Nebraska Wesleyan University, Marvel later remarked, "Sometimes I can hardly wait to get back to it (teaching at NWU), for whatever it's worth."

The Watergate scandal, which he said "has no business spilling over on the Republican Party," and the polls, which give Democrat Gov. J. James Exon the lead, make it difficult for him to win, he said.

Drama Frustrated

"I'm getting damn frustrated in this campaign," he said. "I've played the game according to the rules ... We've traveled 30,000 miles across this state."

Meanwhile, he said, Exon "ignores" the campaign trail and avoids face-to-face confrontation with independent candidate Sen. Ernest Chambers and himself. Instead, Exon is relying on a slick media blitz, he said.

Marvel said his staff claims he should be tougher and should use rougher language to bring home the sins of the Exon administration.

However, he said his style has always been to operate quietly behind the scenes.

"I'm not that hot on my personality myself," he said. "I don't like it anymore than my supporters do."

"But I refuse to remake myself for the purpose of gaining votes."

He said his job as the standard-bearer for the Republican Statehouse ticket is to "try and convince the Republicans they ought to stand up and be proud."

The Exon administration, he said, is the epitome of "all that is wrong with American politics" — namely, arrogance, incompetence, deceitfulness and unmitigated ambition.

Arrogant Claims

Exon, he said, has been arrogant in claiming credit for the 11% state income tax. In reality, he said it was over Exon's objections that the State Board of Equalization lowered the tax rate last year.

The people Exon has appointed to head state agencies are in "way over their heads," he said, specifically, State Engineer Tom Doyle and Institutions Director Dr. Jack Anderson.

The indications are Exon has been deceitful in his handling of a lease for a Omaha office building for the State Labor Department. The lease with an Exon campaign supporter is the subject of a legislative subcommittee examining the possibility of political pay-offs.

Travels Criticized

Marvel criticized Exon for unmitigated ambition in his trips to Washington and other places to promote himself as a candidate for U.S. Senate in 1978.

He also accused Exon of operating a "closed corporation" which makes it nearly impossible for public to get information about government operations.

Lawyer Paints Ehrlichman As Victim Of Nixon, Dean

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman's lawyer portrayed the onetime White House aide Tuesday as a victim of the deceit of former President Richard M. Nixon and John W. Dean III.

"Richard Nixon deceived, misled, lied to and used John Ehrlichman to cover up his own knowledge and his own activities," said William Frates in his opening argument at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Frates said Nixon was "covering up to save his own neck."

Frates was the first defense attorney to make an opening statement in the trial of five former Nixon administration and campaign aides charged with conspiring to block the investigation of the break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate on June 17, 1972.

David G. Bress, attorney for former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian, followed Frates and described his client as "very minimally involved in the evidence in this case."

The other three defendants are former White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time attorney for Nixon's re-election committee.

Richard Ben-Veniste, an assistant special Watergate prosecutor, outlined the government's case in a long opening statement on Monday. All five defendants are charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice. All but Mardian also are charged with obstruction of justice.

Frates said that in the spring of 1973 Dean, then White House counsel, realized "the house of cards was falling in on him."

It was then, said Frates, that

Dean went to his lawyers and they started bargaining with the prosecutors in an effort to obtain immunity from prosecution for their client.

But the prosecutors wanted worthwhile information, Frates said, and Dean offered them Ehrlichman.

In reality, according to Frates, Dean had done on his own acts which he told the prosecutors Ehrlichman had ordered him to do.

"Remember," Frates told the jury of nine women and three men, "Dean was working as the President's lawyer under the President's direction."

Frates said Ehrlichman never ordered Dean to destroy evidence, never attempted to obtain cover-up funds from the Central Intelligence Agency and never suggested using money to buy the silence of the break-in defendants.

The board of directors decided to file under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy act because of "adverse operating results of the corporation and projected lack of cash flow to meet existing obligations and operating expenses from now until the spring of 1975," according to a document filed in U.S. District Court.

Doug Duchek, an attorney for the firm, said the firm's financial picture may brighten in the spring in view of a traditional spring upswing in the restaurant business.

Kings Seeks To Straighten Financial Woes

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Kings Food Host U.S.A. Tuesday filed petitions in U.S. District Court in Lincoln, seeking permission to straighten out its financial affairs under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Act.

The petition states that the corporation is unable to pay its debts as they mature. Filed with the petition was a computer printout of 234 pages listing creditors in at least 20 states.

The petitions list the corporation's debts as $9,597,900 and its assets as $9,831,800.

The filing shows the rapid decline of a restaurant chain that mushroomed across the Midwest after beginning with a single restaurant in Lincoln in 1955.

Price Made Good

For many years the Kings Food Host story was the story of a local man, Larry Price, who made good.

Price sold his controlling interest in the company in 1972 for an estimated $3 million. At that time the chain included 100 company and 36 franchised restaurants.

Shares of stock were sold for $14 apiece when the corporation went public in 1969. Tuesday the shares were selling for 50c to 75c apiece.

Contacted by phone Tuesday, Price said, "Yes, it hurts to be a part in any way of a loser."

But the chain, Price said, "shouldn't be a loser now."

Back In January

Price returned to the corporation in January as an unpaid consultant. His job, he said, was to bring quality back to the restaurant food. He said Tuesday he has not been active in that role since March. "Things just didn't work out."

Price said he hopes the filing will be a "good, positive step" toward solving the problems of the restaurant chain he created.

Price still owns 9.5% of the corporations stock.

Under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Act, the corporation may continue to operate restaurants in the Kings Food Host chain while a plan is worked out to pay its "unsecured" creditors (those who do not have liens on property).

Creditors Must Accept

That plan must be accepted by a majority of the unsecured creditors, and that majority must be entitled to more than half of the corporation's total unsecured indebtedness.

According to the petitions, $4,975,471 of the corporation's total indebtedness is unsecured, with about 5,000 creditors owed that amount.

If the corporation and its creditors cannot come to agreement on repayment of debts, according to Bankruptcy Judge David Crawford, the petition can be dismissed or adjudicated. Typically, Crawford said, creditors and the debtor agree that the debtor will pay a percentage of the debts or agree that payments will be extended over a period of time.

In an ordinary bankruptcy a firm's assets are sold to satisfy debts and the firm discontinues its operation.

Compromise Delays Aid Cutoff

Washington (AP) — House and administration leaders reached a compromise quickly Tuesday on legislation vetoed by President Ford that would ban U.S. military aid to Turkey.

The agreement came hours after the House sustained President Ford's veto of a bill to cut off aid immediately to Turkey.

The compromise delays the cutoff until Dec. 10. Efforts to automatically end U.S. military aid any time the Ankara government sends equipment to its occupation forces on Cyprus was rejected by the committee.

The House and Senate hope to vote out the compromise resolution Wednesday.

The compromise is contained in an emergency spending resolution needed by some federal agencies.

Both the original Turkish aid cut-off and emergency spending resolution died when the House failed to override Ford's veto. The House vote was 223 to 135, 16 votes short of the two-thirds needed to override.

(Rep. John McColister, R-Neb., voted to override the veto, while Reps. Dave Martin and Charles Thone, both R-Neb., voted against overriding the veto.)

Less than an hour later, the House overwhelmingly overrode Ford's veto of a railroad pension bill 360 to 12, sending the measure to the Senate. That bill would put a $7.1 billion tap on the Treasury to help save the railroad pension system from predicted bankruptcy.

New York Times News Summary

Caribair Buy Asked

Washington — Lorraine S. Rockefeller said Tuesday he sent a telegram to President Nixon in August, 1972, urging Nixon to allow Eastern Airlines, in which the Rockefellers have an interest, to acquire Caribair, an airline based in Puerto Rico. Seven months later, Nixon reversed a decision by the Civil Aeronautics Board and approved the acquisition.

Rocky Asks Hearing

New York — Nelson A. Rockefeller asked the chairmen of the Senate Rules Committee and the House Judiciary Committee to convene "immediate" hearings on his nomination as vice-president. He said he was being tried in the press without a chance to present all the facts, on the basis of "selective leaks" from tax returns "submitted to the committees in confidence."

Funnelling Admitted

Santiago — In interviews, reliable Chilean businessmen admitted funnelling $200,000 to striking unions shortly before the anti-Allende coup. The sources could not say whether money was from the CIA but named Mexican and Venezuelan companies that had made donations.

Flight Deal Planned

New York — In a move to narrow financial losses, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines have tentatively agreed to halt head-to-head competition on their routes between the United States and points in Europe and Asia. The agreement is subject to Civil Aeronautics Board and presidential approval.

Electric Rates Up

New York — Electricity rates of the nation's 50 largest utilities rose by an average of 55 4% during the first half of the year, and more rate rises are in prospect.

French: Agency Wrong

Luxembourg — France told her Common Market partners Tuesday she believed the proposed 12-nation energy consumers agency was the wrong instrument for seeking to solve Europe's energy problems and that it could conflict with efforts of the nine to create their own energy policy.

N-Powered Ship Flop

Tokyo — Japan's nuclear-powered ship Mutsu returned to port, probably never to sail the high seas again. The First Japanese nuclear ship is a flop, as reactor leaks and fishermen in home port forced it to stay adrift for 50 days.

Gift Probe Approved

Trenton — The New Jersey Assembly, by an overwhelming voice vote, passed a resolution to investigate the $550,000 gift to William J. Ronan, chairman of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, from Nelson A. Rockefeller, now vice president-designate. The resolution said the gift raised serious questions about Ronan's ability to continue in office and called on Gov. Brendan Byrne to veto all Port Authority decisions until the investigation is ended.

U.S. Demand Unacceptable To Brezhnev

Moscow (AP) — Communist Party chief Leonid Brezhnev declared Tuesday that it was "utterly irrelevant and unacceptable" for the United States to demand internal changes in the Soviet Union in return for trade concessions.

The Kremlin leader, speaking at a dinner in honor of U.S. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, was referring to congressional refusal to pass a trade bill granting most-favored nation status to the Soviet Union until it allows Jews to emigrate more freely. Simon arrived Sunday for trade talks.

Ford Signs Campaign Bill But He Has 'Reservations'

Washington (UPI) — President Ford Tuesday signed "with reservations" the most far-reaching political campaign reforms in the nation's history.

The sweeping reforms, a direct result of the Watergate scandals, will go into effect in 1975 and are certain to revolutionize political campaigns for federal offices.

"There certain periods in our nation's history when it becomes necessary to face up to certain unpleasant truths," Ford said without mentioning Watergate.

His reservations centered on public financing of presidential campaigns and political conventions. He also cited "the First Amendment implications inherent in the limits on individual contributions and candidate expenditures."

Ford did not spell out the possible constitutional violations but apparently referred to First Amendment guarantees of freedom of speech. "I am sure that such issues can be resolved in the courts," he said.

Despite his objections to the public financing provisions, Ford said he does support the present $1 checkoff on federal income tax returns which are divided now among major party presidential candidates.

General Election Financing — Beginning with the 1976 elections, the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates can receive $20 million each from the federal treasury for the general election. They can choose either federal funds or private contributions but cannot mix the two. Other party candidates can receive a proportionate share of the $20 million based on election results.

Primary Financing — Candidates, to become eligible for public financing, must first raise $100,000, with $5,000 from each of 20 states. The government will then match the first $100,000 and every private contribution of $250 up to a ceiling of $5 million.

Convention Financing — The Republican and Democratic Parties can receive $2 million each from public funds to finance their conventions.

Contributions — Individuals are limited to overall contributions of $25,000 in a single year and no more than $3,000 to an individual candidate — $1,000 in the primaries, $1,000 in a runoff, and $1,000 in the general election. Organizations can contribute $5,000 to a candidate in each the primary, a runoff, and the general election. Presidential candidates can contribute $50,000 to their own campaigns, Senate candidates $35,000 and House candidates $25,000.

Spending — Presidential candidates are limited to $20 million in the federal election and $10 million in the primaries. Senate candidates can spend eight cents times the voting age population or $100,000 in the primaries and 12 cents or $150,000 in the general election. House candidates are limited to $70,000 in the primaries and $70,000 in the general election.

Other provisions require candidates to establish a central campaign committee, require campaign report contributions and expenditures, ban cash contributions, over $100, forbid contributions from foreigners, prohibit contributions in another person's name and treat loans as contributions.

The measure also limits honorariums for elected or appointed officials to $15,000 in a year and no more than $1,000 for a single article or speech, allows state and local employees to participate in federal campaigns unless barred by state law and permits the use of excess campaign funds to defray the expenses of holding public office.

Mortgage Aid Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress sent President Ford legislation Tuesday to put as much as $8 billion in federal funds into the depressed housing market, making it easier for homebuyers to find credit.

Ford had asked for speedy passage of the emergency housing bill and made it one of the priorities in his economic message delivered to Congress a week ago.

The bill extends the government's authority to buy up conventional housing mortgages, in addition to those insured by government agencies, which will inject new money into the mortgage credit system.

Ford had said he would make $3 billion available immediately for the program.

In the Senate debate last Thursday, some Republicans had cautioned that an amendment added to the bill lowering the interest rate from 9.5 to 8.25 per cent might force Ford to veto it.

Angry Farmers Kill 658 Calves

CURTIS, Wis. (AP) — Farmers angered by low cattle prices slaughtered 658 calves Tuesday and shoved the bodies into freshly dug pits.

All but 22 of the calves were killed here by members of the National Farmers Organization. The animals were shot or had their throats slit, then were buried in three seven-foot-deep trenches dug a few hours earlier.

At times as many as 150 persons watched.

The other calves were killed by members of the Buena Vista Beef Growers Association about 60 miles southeast of Curtis in the Wisconsin Rapids area.

The farmers claim inflation has driven up the costs of feed grain and other overhead so it costs more to raise an animal than they get for it at the market.

Most of the animals slain were less than two weeks old. But some weighed as much as 400 pounds. The farmers said all were healthy.

Texas cattle men have threatened to conduct similar calf slaughters in the past few weeks, but none of those threats has been carried out yet.

The decision to hold the Wisconsin slaughter was made at NFO meetings Monday night. Phil Broege, marketing area dairy representative for the NFO in the central Wisconsin area, said about 65 per cent of those at the meetings favored the action.

"None of us like it," one farmer said. "But if they don't change soon they might as well shoot the American farmer and throw him in the pit."

Broege said it costs a farmer about 70 cents a pound to raise veal calves and they get only 17 cents a pound for them.

Broege said he was told that the Wisconsin Humane Society had objected to the slaughter, but he stated he had not received any word from that group or any other protesting the action. The killing has been opposed by the Humane Society of the United States.

LG Needs No Anchor

Proposals to alter the governing structure of Lincoln General Hospital, giving more direct responsibility to the City Council, ought to be abandoned. Granted, Lincoln General Hospital (LG) as now structured represents a generally unwanted fragmentation of government.

But LG, on the other hand, is not your typical kind of government. Hospitals as a part of government have a long tradition in the nation and in this community but the relationship today is more one of past precedent than of need or propriety.

There are two complementary factors that work against the moving to the City Council of greater rate making authority and control over legal counsel. One, the operation of a hospital is a highly complex and technical thing that demands professional guidance and full time attention. Two, the City Council has neither the time or the competence to fulfill those management requirements.

And to totally control hospital charges is, in effect, to offer management. It is unrealistic to give the hospital board and the institution's administration responsibility for management of the hospital but to keep its hands tied in the critical areas of charges for services.

Rates and management go hand in

Guerrillas To Be Heard

With more or less of a consensus, the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) is the recognized spokesman for the Palestinian people, for those in the refugee camps and the terrorist groups alike.

It doesn't seem out of place, then, for the PLO to take part in the debate on the future of the Palestinians which the United Nations will undertake in November.

The U.N. General Assembly admitted the legitimacy of the PLO's position Monday when by a vote of 105 to 4 with 20 abstentions it invited the PLO to participate in the debate.

The United States, whose friendship with Israel is a major influence on this nation stretching its argument to the extreme limits, joined Israel, Bolivia and the Dominican Republic in voting against the resolution inviting the PLO. U.S. Ambassador John Scali told the assembly that the invitation "could have the ultimate effect of working against the interests of a Palestinian settlement." By inviting non-government representatives to address the assembly, Scali asked, "Have we created a dangerous precedent which may return to haunt this organization and perhaps cripple its effectiveness?"

While it may be unseemly to invite terrorists to a tea party, the debate on Palestine should be no tea party. Who else can speak with authority for the Palestinians? The Arab states for the most part are skittish about embracing the PLO unreservedly and Israel can't be allowed to articulate the aspirations of the Palestinian people. Nongovernment representatives must speak for the Palestinians because there is no government to represent them.

Fortunately, all but a few U.N. members agreed that the voice of the Palestinians must be heard if the U.N. debate is to be something more than a joke.

Welcome, Mr. President

Nebraskans shed their partisan affiliations for a moment to welcome the President of the United States to Lincoln to enjoy with us this state's glorious splash of autumn.

President Ford, of course, is here on political business, something that has and will take up much of his time up until election eve. And what help he'll be in shoring up sagging GOP fortunes is best left to guesswork.

But as invigorating as the autumn air is the change which has settled on the nation.

For too long a time, the American president had been unwelcome in many parts of his own land. Now, it is different. Politics aside, although it is never aside for very long, people can accept and appreciate the presence of a chief executive who is more open and personally engaging than any national political figure on the scene in recent years.

That an American president is welcome in his own land again is a pleasant change indeed, for him and the rest of us.

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON—Kudos to President Ford for not letting the violence attendant on Boston's busing dispute cloud over the raw injustice of moving children in pursuit of artificial racial balance. Two centuries ago, the violence of the Boston Tea Party was also illegal and unjustifiable, but history has chosen instead to remember its resistance to tyranny — and busing to achieve racial balance is as much tyranny as the colonial revenue system of King George III.

For years, a considerable part of the American liberal community has explained away the rapes, riots and crime rate of the slums with references to deprivation, cultural alienation and a multitude of other sociological malfunctions. But now that white communities have been turned violent by social experimentation — whether the "racial balance" foisted upon South Boston or the obscene textbooks forced upon the fundamentalists of Kanawha County, West Virginia — there's been no exculpatory invocation of cultural strain or deprivation. No Sirree, bub. Every muggerlover from Back Bay to Beverly Hills is now calling for the National Guard and the State Police.

Getting down to basics, the situation in Boston provides further evidence that crosstown busing for racial balance is foolish, incendiary and counterproductive. And while the Supreme Court has blocked suburban inner city busing by a less-than-precise 5-4 decision, crosstown busing within any city still stands — and other major urban centers could find themselves in the Boston predicament.

To my way of thinking, the only sound, longterm resolution is a nationwide anti-busing rule, if busing children for 10 miles between suburb and inner city is foolish, so is busing children 10 miles from a white city neighborhood to a black city neighborhood. The law may be different, but the educational and sociological rationale is exactly similar. And the same can be said of rules which force Southern cities to adopt crosstown busing — because of pre-1954 segregation statutes — while letting Northern cities off the hook.

If crosstown busing is bad national law, bad national sociology and bad national education, then it ought to be terminated from one end of the U.S. to the other. And here I submit the evidence is clear: This column has previously cited a number of academic studies, based on evidence from California to New England, that busing has been a failure in terms of educational achievement and community relations. Even while the Boston battle was taking shape, new reports have come of busing's educational failure in Pasadena, Calif.

mosty grudging — toward the desegregation of schools. Richard Nixon regularly denounced busing; his justice department went into court to oppose or delay desegregation orders; and help promised to communities under court mandates to desegregate never really materialized.

So encouraged, and with hot public opposition to busing exploited by the administration rather than cooled, members of Congress — Ford prominently among them — sought repeatedly to make busing illegal or even unconstitutional. With that much opposition, vocally and frequently expressed, from both the executive and legislative branches of the federal government, busing has become — as Boston demonstrates — virtually impossible to impose on communities outside the south.

As the question of school desegregation in the north and west has arisen, even the courts have given the appearance of retreat — at least from busing, and perhaps even from desegregation itself, since in many

Unfortunately, relatively little major media attention has been given to these studies. Such evidence gets in the way of attempts to picture busing as socially acceptable, educationally productive and part of the American March of Progress. But it isn't. And every big busing fight, from Michigan to Boston, is radicalizing another district of the country for the ultimate hour of legal-legislative truth.

To be sure, there are a few places where busing has worked — a few. But there were plenty of locales where busing worked, although it was a national failure (especially in the same big cities where busing is so repulsive). Ultimately, the 18th (Prohibition) Amendment to the Constitution was repealed by the 21st Amendment, and another Constitutional correction to end busing is in order.

The two situations are really quite parallel. Sociologists Brigitte and Peter Berger have usefully analyzed the busing-racial balance controversy as an extension of Prohibition's puritan morality. In their 1972 study, "The Assault on Class," they note that "the demon racism has replaced the demon rum, and the new Prohibition requires an extension of police powers at least equal to those required by the old." It also requires a similar correction.

So I will leave the whining over Boston's impropriety to my liberal friends. Two hundred years ago, when our future President, John Adams, heard about the Boston Tea Party, he condoned the views of those who had wanted to dump a few local officials in the water with the tea. And maybe the Boston Bus Party will also have a historical significance greatly transcending the immediate taint of hoodlomanism.

As it is, Ford and most other politicians of both parties denounce busing and pay lip service to the law. But he is not enforcing the latter and neither he nor any of them has a substitute for the former. That means there is no federal policy for achieving desegregation outside the south, as southerners never believed there would be, and as Kevin White has learned the hard way.

TOM WICKER

WASHINGTON — Mayor Kevin White of Boston has properly rebuked President Ford for statements lending aid and comfort to those resisting a court order for the desegregation of Boston schools. But the fact is that the federal government no longer has a policy for achieving school desegregation, and Ford's unfortunate remarks only reflected that lack.

At his news conference last week, Ford said a court-ordered busing plan was "not the best solution" for Boston schools. After that, it was no use for him to urge Bostonians nevertheless to "respect the law." Predictably, South Boston's busing foes were overjoyed to be supported in their view from the top of the federal government. The net result, as Mayor White pointed out, was the possible endangerment of school children trapped in Boston's adult folly and intransigence.

Ford's insensitivity to these consequences of his nationally televised remarks was reminiscent of President Eisenhower's adamant refusal to give his personal support to the Supreme Court's historic school desegregation decision of 1954. The silence — which he repeatedly refused to break — of so revered a leader encouraged southern politicians of the time to counsel resistance, even massive resistance, to the law of the land.

When such resistance brought a major challenge to the validity of a federal court order in Little Rock in 1957, however, Eisenhower recognized his duty and sent in federal troops — not, in his view, to force desegregation, although that was the effect, but to preserve the integrity of the judicial process.

But Ford's apparent unwillingness to take action to support the law in Boston is not a sudden turnabout on his part or that of the government. Since the advent of the Nixon administration, Washington has provided little leadership — and that

BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON — OSHA is not a new Japanese television company. It stands for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, U.S. Department of Labor. President Richard Nixon hailed it as one of the greatest achievements of his life when he signed the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 into being.

Turned out that it was. It protects 60,000,000 American workers in more than 5,000,000 workplaces. It sets safety and health standards and can throw an employer in the can if he doesn't live up to them.

You may never have heard of OSHA. You probably know him by another name: Big Brother. He's watching you. Millions of you.

Let's say you're in plastics. More or less recently OSHA's people have concluded that the unusual incidence of cancer of the liver (angiosarcoma) noted among workers in plastic plants can be traced to vinyl chloride, a gaseous chemical that is part of the process of turning out the nation's mountains of plastic. As a result, all plastic plants must now limit employee exposure to vinyl chloride. By 1976, workers must be supplied with respirators.

Now take asbestos, hardly an ominous word. Nancy L. Nelson, writing in "Safety Standards," notes:

"Two thousand years ago when the first use of asbestos was recorded, it was a sacred object, a curiosity of kings and nobles, a magic mineral."

"The Greeks, who used asbestos for the wicks of their temple lamps, were enthralled when flames did not consume it. Amazed, they called it 'asbesta,' which meant 'unquenchable' or 'inextinguishable.'"

"Now that asbestos has been integrated into our industrial world — from fireproof drapery

and floor tiles to the corrugated steel used in heavy construction — the term used by the Greeks has been found to apply to another attribute of this mineral. No cure now exists for the diseases caused by inhaling asbestos fibers; once established, these disorders, too, have so far proved to be inextinguishable.

In the last few years, asbestos has been recognized as one of the most hazardous of air contaminants in the workplace. Employees exposed to asbestos include an estimated 100,000 insulation workers, 50,000 workers in manufacturing products, 60,000 using end products, and uncounted thousands in construction."

Dr. Irving J. Selikoff, Mt. Sinai School of Medicine, New York, writes, "One in every five deaths among insulation workers is due to lung cancer, one in ten to cancer of the pleura or peritoneum, one in ten to scarred lungs of asbestosis." Projecting a grim future, unless OSHA comes to the rescue, Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond of the American Cancer Society states that by the end of this century asbestos exposure can lead to 17,000 deaths a year from lung cancer, 10,000 from cancer of the pleura and peritoneum, and 10,000 from asbestosis.

These are figures that dwarf the loss of life during the invasion of Normandy, and approximate the number of American dead in the entire Korean War.

What else? How about lead? More than 1,800,000 employees in nearly every industrial manufacturing process are exposed to lead poisoning. Lead can enter the body by inhalation, absorption through the skin and ingestion. Lead is a cumulative poison. Once in, it doesn't leave the body. When there's enough of it deposited, the lead worker croaks.

The tens of thousands of people who do your laundry and dry-cleaning — Al Capone once tried to monopolize the dry-cleaning industry in Chicago — have an unseen enemy mixed in with the solvents they use. Then there are workers who have special protection under such occupations as mining, railroading and nuclear developments and reactors and bombs.

Whatever, Big Brother's there, and on many fronts.

Dist. by King Features Synd.

"Hey — It Reads Like One Of Them Presidential Pardons"

Area Of Compromise

Last March in this column I commented upon Hess Dyas' willingness to set out guidelines for Congressman Thone and his own lack of same for himself.

Mr. Dyas, then as now, refuses to follow those standards although he is still demanding that his opponent, the congressman, do so.

Like a hawk, he watches Congressman Thone's contributors in fear that some "vested interest" group like the Republican Party of Nebraska will give Mr. Thone some money. However, he himself has no qualms about accepting money from labor no matter how far from Nebraska it may have originated. Does he think that labor will not be asking favors? Think again, Mr. Dyas.

I would suggest that in taking such money, he has compromised his own promise that he will not accept donations given "with expectation of favor."

To compromise once . . . DOUG MUELLER

Utah Support For Hamilton

Citizens of Lancaster County may be surprised to learn that the political campaign of H. Bruce Hamilton for county commissioner has echoed west into the state of Utah.

There will be those of us unable to be present to cast a vote, so this letter will be indicative of the moral support of the writer for a man long admired.

Such feeling stems from a time when Mr. Hamilton was attached to the courts of Washington, D.C., when I listened as he upheld the legal rights of the underprivileged. At the time he served both the court and his client with competence and energy more often displayed only by higher paid legal counsel. I discovered at the time that Bruce Hamilton was a man who could be trusted.

I am 68 and Mr. Hamilton is much younger, and there is a wide divergence between our professions, but his opinions and sincerity will win the faith of all, and his confidence in his fellowmen cannot be challenged. He is a man I can look toward as a leader.

If the citizens of Lancaster County elect Bruce Hamilton their county commissioner, they will discover that his ideals for good government include representation for all people; that what he advocates will be carried through with the energy he derives from faith in the voters.

Bar 'Has No Rights'

The recent comments of the Nebraska State Bar Association president in the local press as to the Legislature trying to make itself a one-department, omnipotent government need to be answered as they are patently false.

In the first place the Legislature is not a department of government. It is democratically elected and as such is a law-making body and not a department.

The election is far more democratic than the method of electing judges which is the same as used in electing officials in the Soviet Union. No one opposes them!

Now as for the Legislature trying to take over the rights of the Nebraska Bar Association, the bar has no rights, save what it was given by the Nebraska Supreme Court by fiat!

As we have said before, the court is not elected by the democratic process so how could one of its rulings on lawyers groups and naysayers by only one-third of the lawyers in the state in 1937 be considered as constitutional?

One can search the Nebraska Constitution from the Territorial to the present with all their amendments in the hundreds and not find one place demanding that lawyers join the Nebraska Bar Association before they can practice. It was an idea of the Roosevelt braintrusts as were many ideas of the 30s to regulate lawyers and their fees. It was not capitalistic but on the other hand socialistic. An attempt at "price-fixing" which has not caught up with failure yet as have so many of the other regulations of the New Deal simply because the more prosperous lawyers enjoy their privileges and are quick to cover up the regimentation of the process.

If the integrated bar is so good, how come only half the states have seen fit to adopt it? No, Sen. Chambers is not to be criticized in his exposure of the scheme, and many Nebraska lawyers would speak out except for their fear of retaliation by the Supreme Court. In this they are being extremely ethical as they do not want any of their clients to lose a case because they were rash enough to speak out for democracy and against the wishes of the Supreme Court. It should be the other way around.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska should be subservient to the people whose taxes permit their lifestyles!

Chemist, Astronomers Awarded Nobel Prizes

The New York Times

An American chemist whose ideas and techniques made possible the wide range of plastics and other synthetic polymers in common use today and two British astronomers who have investigated the distant reaches of the universe received 1974 Nobel Prizes Tuesday.

The Nobel Prize in chemistry was awarded to Dr. Paul J. Flory, professor of chemistry at Stanford University. For nearly 40 years, Flory has been a pioneer in developing analytic methods now used by chemists everywhere to study the properties and molecular architecture of long-chain molecules.

The Nobel Prize in physics went to Dr. Martin Ryle and Dr. Antony Hewish, both professors at the Cavendish Laboratory of Cambridge University in England. The award marked the first recognition by the Nobel committee of achievements in astronomy.

Ryle is best known for devising a method by which several small radiotelescopes can be operated in concert to achieve the observational powers of a single large radio-telescope with a dish-shaped antenna several miles in diameter. (Construction of such a huge antenna is not considered feasible.)

Ryle has used the technique, known as aperture synthesis, to gain much new information about the nature of various objects in the universe.

Hewish's major achievement is the discovery, using radiotelescopes, of pulsars, the curious objects far out in space that regularly emit pulses of radio waves, generally at intervals of one-half to two seconds.

They've Been Married 26 Years

President and Mrs. Ford stand together on a White House balcony Tuesday as they celebrate their 26th wedding anniversary.

Interlock Ban Sent To Ford

Washington (UPI) — The House Tuesday passed and sent to President Ford a bill outlawing seat belt interlock systems, which prevent starting an automobile until the belts are fastened.

Continuous buzzer systems are also outlawed by the bill, okayed in the Senate last week. The only device which could be required to tell a driver his seat belt is not locked would be a dashboard light.

After the bill is signed by Ford, dealers and manufacturers would be allowed to disconnect interlocks already installed. The interlocks had been required on all the cars beginning late this year.

Air bags and other passive restraint systems would not be specifically prohibited by the bill, but any new requirements by the Transportation Department will be subject to approval by Congress.

The legislation would also require auto manufacturers to repair free of charge any safety-related defect in any automobile it manufactures for up to eight years.

The compromise bill was worked out in a conference committee between slightly-differing House and Senate versions of the same bill.

Court Won't Rule Whether Feds Need Judge's OK To Bug Spies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court declined to rule Tuesday on whether federal agents need authorization from a judge to use wiretaps in their efforts to detect spying by foreign powers.

The court's surprise decision

Cromwell, Iowa, Bank Goes Under

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. announced Tuesday the nation's fourth bank failure within a month.

The failure, the smallest of the four logged so far this year, involved the Cromwell State Savings Bank of Cromwell, Iowa, which had 1,534 depositors and total liabilities of $3.3 million.

FDIC chairman Frank Wille said that Iowa State Savings Bank of Creston, Iowa, had agreed to assume all the deposit liabilities of the failed bank and reopen the Cromwell office as a branch office.

The arrangement, as with all other failures this year, provides full protection to depositors in the defunct bank.

The four failures so far this year compared to six last year. The largest was last week, when the Franklin National Bank of New York, with its $1.7 billion in deposits went under and was sold to European-American Bank & Trust Co.

This year's other failures both in September, involved Tri-City Bank of Warren, Mich., which was assumed by the newly chartered Michigan National Bank of Macomb, and the American Bank and Trust of Orangeburg, S.C., which was taken over by Southern Bank and Trust Co.

Bank Group In Britain In Trouble

LONDON (AP) — A large British banking group announced Tuesday it was in trouble — another in a series of financial setbacks that have shaken business confidence in Western Europe.

The British financial group, Jessel Securities, listed banking, insurance and other assets worth $1 billion in 1972. Tuesday the company admitted a cash crunch and asked the London stock exchange to suspend trading in its shares.

Jessel Securities said its cash position was in doubt because the policies of its insurance subsidiary were linked to stock market investments which have fallen rapidly in the last two years. Jessel's own shares, with a 1974 high of $1.50, were down to 24 cents Tuesday just before trading was suspended.

Costa Gomez To Visit Ford

Washington (AP) — The new Portuguese President, Francisco de Costa Gomez, will meet with President Ford at the White House on Friday, a White House spokesman announced Tuesday.

Costa Gomez will be in the United States to address the United Nations General Assembly.

let stand the conviction of Igor A. Ivanov, found guilty 10 years ago of spying for the Soviet Union.

It had been widely assumed the court would review the case, because attorneys for both Ivanov and the Justice Department had asked it to.

Three justices — William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Potter Stewart — favored hearing the appeal.

The court does not hear a case, however, unless four justices want to.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, who frequently sides with Douglas and Brennan, did not take part in the decision.

Marshall was solicitor general when the Ivanov case was appealed to the Supreme Court the first time, in 1969. At that time, the court sent the case back to a lower federal court to determine whether there had been illegal wiretaps.

The Ivanov decision came as the court screened nearly 1,000 cases which piled up during the summer recess, accepting 25 for full-scale review including a hearing.

Cases it agreed to consider involve:

—Whether states may deny welfare benefits for unborn children, as 35 states do, under federal regulations which make it optional.

—The constitutionality of a Pennsylvania law providing state-financed tutoring, textbooks and equipment for pupils in private schools.

—Whether a Social Security law providing death benefits to widows but not to widowers is unconstitutionally discriminatory.

—Whether returning veterans are entitled to have their military service counted in computing vacations from their civilian jobs.

In other actions, the court upheld the constitutionality of the trans-Alaska pipeline act and agreed to review a lower court order requiring the builders of the line, Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., to pay costs of a lawsuit which delayed its construction.

It declined to hear a case raising the question of whether poor defendants are required to free lawyers in civil cases as they are in criminal cases.

The court also agreed to decide whether taxpayers may, in some instances, sue the Internal Revenue Service to block collection of taxes. Generally such suits are forbidden by a provision of the IRS code.

Pentagon Denies Competitive Flyoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday "there was no competitive flyoff" between the Air Force's new F15 fighter and the Navy's new F14 aircraft.

This statement by Pentagon spokesman William Beecher disputed a claim by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., last week that a secret flyoff had demonstrated that the F15 is much more effective than the F14.

Eagleton urged a halt to further development of the F14. The F15 is manufactured in Missouri.

Asked about the Eagleton claim, Beecher said he was not aware of any written comparison prepared by Navy or Air Force pilots who flew the planes, or by anybody else in the two aircraft programs.

"They did not fly at the same time, or fly against each other," Beecher said.

Race Bias Charge In Omaha Schools Nixed

Omaha (AP) — A federal judge Tuesday rejected government allegations of deliberate racial discrimination in the Omaha School District.

U.S. District Judge Albert G. Schatz dismissed the complaints filed against the district by the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Justice Department and 31 intervenors.

In a 49-page written decision, Schatz concluded, "This court has made a careful and painstaking review of the record and excellent briefs before it and has carefully considered the arguments . . . From all evidence before it, and from reviewing the many cases dealing with the segregation problem, this Court is convinced that the record simply does not justify the finding and determination that the school authorities in question intentionally discriminated against minority students by practicing a deliberate policy of racial segregation."

"No Authority" Schatz also wrote, "This Court has no authority, nor any directive to substitute its opinion for what would constitute a good policy or better policy for that of the School Board unless the policy in question is violative of the Constitution as stated in Davis v. School District of Pontiac (Mich.)."

In the Michigan case, a judge ruled that the courts do not have the authority to impose action remedies which they may think to be good. In effect, the decision said policy is for school authorities to determine, except when such policy offends the U.S. Constitution.

The Omaha suit named the Omaha School District, Supt. Owen A. Knutzen and the 12 members of the Omaha Board of Education.

Race Bias Allegation

The plaintiffs alleged that the defendants were engaging in racial discrimination in the operation of the city's public school system.

The suit was formally filed in U.S. District Court here Aug. 10, 1973, and went to trial March 4, 1974. Judge Schatz heard 2½ weeks of testimony in the case, then reserved his decision pending the filing of additional briefs.

Schatz wrote that the legal principles in the Omaha case were the same as those set forth by the U.S. Supreme Court in Keyes v. School District No. 1, Denver, Colo.

Schatz said that in the Denver case, the high court said a violation of the Constitution occurs when: "There is current condition of racial segregation; and this condition has been caused or maintained by intentional state action."

Racial Imbalance

Schatz said there is no question that there is a substantial degree of racial imbalance in some of the Omaha schools, but that the litigation centered on whether the imbalance "has been intentionally caused or maintained by the defendants."

Schatz concluded that there was in fact, "No segregative intent on the part of the defendant school district . . . The evidence shows that the district's proposals for various junior high schools were consistently made on a geographical basis and that the race of the students expected to attend these schools was never a consideration."

However, Schatz pointed out that one junior high school in the city is now predominantly black, but that there is no evidence that the school district desired or designed the composition of the enrollment.

Exon: I'm Available To Talk About Lease

By The Associated Press

Gov. J. James Exon has offered to appear before a legislative subcommittee to discuss a controversial lease for State Labor Department headquarters in Omaha.

Exon wrote a letter to State Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney, whose Budget Committee is looking into a lease given to Jado, Inc.

"If you feel my appearance would be helpful, I would be pleased to receive an invitation and attempt to rearrange my schedule so I can accept," Exon's letter said.

The hearings are scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

"My assumption is that you also will want information from other officials who are knowledgeable and actually handled the negotiations," Exon added.

Republicans have criticized the 15-year lease, noting it would guarantee Jado a large profit.

They have questioned whether the granting of the lease has anything to do with the fact that Michael Jackson, who is affiliated with Jado, worked for Exon's 1970 gubernatorial campaign.

Jackson is now a Democratic candidate for county board.

Exon has denied the lease had anything to do with politics.

Exon, and administration officials, have contended the lease's terms were fair to the state.

Verdict Cheers Omaha Ed Board

Omaha (AP) — The dismissal of racial discrimination charges against the Omaha School District drew cheers Tuesday from members of the Omaha Board of Education and school district officials, but the possibility of a government appeal remained.

Supt. Owen Knutzen and the board held a news conference 90 minutes after U.S. District Judge Albert G. Schatz issued his ruling, saying he could find no evidence of intentional discriminatory practices in the district, as alleged by the U.S. Justice Department.

In a statement released to newsmen, the board said Judge

Schatz's decision "clearly supports the actions of the Omaha Board of Education and the administration of the Omaha Public Schools in their past efforts to cope with the social problems which face us."

"The opinion reaffirms the position of the Omaha Public Schools have taken for the integration of the school system. However, we look upon this opinion as a benchmark from which to carry on our positive program," the board said.

Although the decision brought "much pleasure," board members said, "It is an appropriate time for the board and the administration to reaffirm their commitment to a positive and constructive integration of this school system."

Joseph Hart, the former, three-term president of the Omaha Board of Education, expressed great satisfaction with the ruling. Hart, who was named as a defendant in the original suit, has since resigned from the board citing health and business reasons.

"Needless to say, I'm very pleased. I believe the judge's decision reflects those statements made repeatedly by the school board and staff and further vindicates the actions of the board, not only leading up to the trial, but those positive actions of desegregation which have been initiated," Hart said.

"I think it gives us a clear bill of health," Hart added.

Kenneth B. Holm, school board attorney, said, "Of course we're very pleased that the court has entered a decision vindicating the school district and its policies."

Holm noted that the decision will probably have long-range effects on other northern cities facing similar problems, and added that he was happy to see that the court is leaving the problems to the school district.

The reaction was much different at the Omaha Legal Aid Society, which was an intervenor in the suit, and assisted in the prosecution presentations during the trial.

Ladd Lonnquist, an attorney for the Society, said, "Obviously we think it (Schatz's decision) is incorrect, and we'll make a decision as to whether or not an appeal will be made, or what action we will take within the 30-day statutory period that's allowed us. Until that time we really are not permitted to say much further on the subject."

Head Count Shows Sharp Increase

Bellevue — Sarpy County shows a population gain of 7,108 since 1970, according to a special census taken last summer. The head count indicates 73,479 residents as of July 15, compared to 66,371 in 1970. County commissioners figure the special count will increase the county's share of a variety of state funds distributed according to population.

Penal Complex Inmate Is Charged In Stabbing

A Nebraska Penal Complex inmate, Alvaro Escamilla, was charged Tuesday with second-degree murder in connection with the weekend fatal stabbing of another prisoner.

Escamilla, 29, was specifically charged with the murder of Luther Wesley Wilson, 44, of Omaha, who died Sunday.

Lancaster County Judge Jeffrey Chevront set Nov. 20 for preliminary hearing and no bond was set.

According to Lancaster County Chief Deputy Atty. Ronald Lahners, Escamilla was serving time for robbery from Scotts Bluff County.

Wilson, whose sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in 1961, had been sentenced to die in the electric chair for the 1958 slaying of an Omaha liquor store clerk during a robbery attempt.

Wheat Seeding Slowed By Dry Soil

It's too late to bother other crops, but Nebraska's wheat-seeding operations are suffering from a lack of moisture, the federal state division of agricultural statistics reported Tuesday.

The report said, "Topsoil moisture supplies declined and are short in 99% of the counties reporting as of last Friday," and noted, "Subsoil moisture supplies are short in all counties."

Most county agents said additional moisture was needed to aid the winter wheat crop, "and some counties report spotty stands due to dryness, and others report no sprouting from lack of moisture."

The wheat seeding is nearly complete around the state, but is normally finished by this time.

Additionally, the moisture shortage is causing its problems for the state's cattlemen. Range and pasture feed supplies declined, and all reporting counties say they are in short supply. Many ranchers are moving their animals to corn and milo stubble fields as soon as possible after harvesting.

Cattle on pasture are being supplemented with hay and silage.

Nebraska's corn harvest is underway around the state and running 50% ahead of schedule, the report said.

Some higher than normal field losses are being reported because of fallen stalks, stalk rot or early frosts. Nearly 30% of the crop has been harvested, and normal for this time of year is just 15%, the report said.

Corn harvested for silage is nearly complete.

Sorghum and soybean crops are rapidly approaching maturity, with soybeans at 95% and sorghum at 90%. In years when drought and early frost have not plagued Nebraska farmers, both crops are normally mature by now.

Harvest of dry edible beans is nearly finished in western Nebraska, and the sugar beet harvest is in full swing with yields and sugar content reported good.

The alfalfa harvest has been slowed somewhat, with 80% of the fourth cutting harvested.

Doane To Join Overseas Team

It's off to Afghanistan for Dr. Ted Doane, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension sheep specialist and associate professor of animal science.

Doane will leave in January, 1975, for a two-year stint as animal science advisor to the dean of agriculture at Kabul University in Kabul, Afghanistan. Eight other members of the NU staff from both the Lincoln and Omaha campuses are presently in Afghanistan.

The program with Afghanistan is a joint undertaking by the University of Nebraska campuses and is administered through the Office of the Dean of International Programs on the Omaha campus.

Soviet Irrigation Team Tour Set

Nebraska irrigation systems and know-how have drawn a higher echelon of Russian dignitaries than ever before, excluding a visit from the minister of agriculture in 1971. A group of four U.S.S.R. governmental people equivalent to U.S. officials of cabinet rank will be in the state Wednesday through Saturday to discuss the various aspects of irrigation and public water systems.

Paul Fischbach, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension irrigationist who just returned from the Soviet Union as part of the U.S. detente team on irrigation, will continue his work with the detente concept by hosting the dignitaries.

He explained that his September visit to the U.S.S.R. produced an agreement of exchange in which the U.S. team will learn the technology behind a water-powered gated canal system.

The group is scheduled to fly from New York City to Omaha Wednesday and to tour the Omaha municipal water system Thursday, with particular emphasis on taking water from the Missouri and Platte Rivers for human consumption. The dignitaries will then visit the NU Field Laboratory near Mead to tour the automated surface irrigation system, the center pivots, and other NU irrigation research projects.

They will spend Thursday evening in Lincoln and will leave Friday morning for North Platte to view the Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District facilities at Gothenburg, with special emphasis on canals and the control of the entire system by the mini computer.

The Russian officials will attend the Nebraska section of the American Society of Ag Engineers meeting at the North Platte Station Saturday, followed by a tour of the Sandhills Ag Lab near Tryon. They will depart for Denver and a conference with Bureau of Reclamation and Department of Interior officials Saturday.

SeTech OKs Milford, Fairbury Building Requests

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — The Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTech) Area Board approved capital construction requests here Tuesday for its Milford and Fairbury campuses amounting to $612,252 and $205,645, respectively.

The figures will now be submitted to the State Board of Technical Community Colleges at its Oct. 25 meeting.

The requests were basically as presented by the two campus directors, Dr. Robert Klabenes of Milford and Dr. Eugene Marcy of Fairbury. The one modification was a scaling down by about $42,000 of Fairbury's proposed renovation of a portion of a dormitory basement for faculty office space.

Board Compromises

Although Fairbury administrators estimated it would cost $67,126 to relocate 17 offices, mostly from an older building scheduled for demolition, board member Ed Copple of Lincoln suggested that $10-15,000 would be more realistic. The board finally compromised "in the range of $25,000." An area of approximately 1,600 square feet is involved.

Other proposed Fairbury construction includes an $87,000 campus center for which $47,000 has already been collected through student fees; revamping of the library and various remodeling to permit several new classrooms. Dr. Marcy explained that much of the work is prompted by the planned demolition of three old temporary buildings and the onetime hospital, which for years was the school's main facility.

The Milford request principally involves a $281,102 revamping of the school's main building, including a complete reroofing and the construction of a comprehensive learning center for which federal matching funds may become available.

Budgeting for the Lincoln campus capital construction will await a recommendation from an architectural firm regarding the possible purchase of Whittier and/or Bryan schools, offered by the Lincoln school system. In a preliminary report, architect Lynn Vermeer said Tuesday that "it appears we're on the right track" in considering the schools.

15% Annual Growth?

Projecting a 15% annual growth in enrollment, he said it appears the Lincoln campus will require at least 160,000 square feet of space by 1980. Whittier and Bryan schools, along the old Watson Transfer Building, 1309 N. 17th, which also is used currently, would afford about 142,000 square feet.

Another Fairbury problem which has been vexing the board, the indebtedness on the school's poorly occupied dormitory, was put off, they hope, for the time being. The board quickly approved a letter of request to Lincoln's National Bank of Commerce, holder of HUD bonds, requesting a moratorium on bond payments.

HUD officials suggested the moratorium at a recent conference over the dilemma.

Dr. Robert Eicher, area president, noted that this year's dormitory residency of below 50 reflects the elimination of the school's football program. Even with twice that number of students staying at the dorm last year, he said the facility experienced a deficit of $2,006.

Board members G. Alan Dunlap of Milford said he felt that "the HUD people are going to be a lot easier to get along with, now that they're having similar problems in other places."

Regarding a recent court decision that the board is obligated to pay $10,854 in back salaries to Lincoln campus teachers, attorney Douglas Curry recommended that no appeal be filed. The dispute, originating when the Lincoln campus was part of the Lincoln public school system in 1972, centered on how much SeTech was obligated to pay 23 tenured teachers who were negotiating salaries at the time of the transition.

Since the court ruling applied only to tenured teachers, Curry said it is possible the plaintiff group might appeal the case regarding nearly another $31,000 which had been asked. Sixty non-tenured teachers had also been affected by the 1972 systems change-over.

Automotive Training

Mr. Eicher reported that an automotive training program is to be resumed under the sponsorship of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). The program replaces a nearly identical one, which had been funded by the Manpower Development Training Act (MDTA).

Three of the five staff members who were terminated when the other program was discontinued will be re-hired, Dr. Eicher said. They include Gene Busboom, John Hill and Edwin Zimmerman.

Dunlap urged that "everything possible" be done to find employment for the other two teachers.

Of the board's 11 members, a minimum quorum of six attended. They include Dunlap, Copple, Howard Mannschreck of Fairbury, Mrs. Marge Haessler of Wahoo, Mrs. Loretta Draper of Plattsmouth and Larry G. Hermann of Lincoln.

The board also:

—Informally approved Dr. Eicher's participation in a legislative committee to be comprised of all area presidents, a member from each board and the executive director of the State Board of Technical Community Colleges.

—Approved the conducting of an in-service training program for the Beatrice State Home under a $21,800 federal grant.

Tiemann To Skip 'Link'

Sidney (AP) — The general manager of the Cheyenne County Chamber of Commerce said he was mistaken Monday when he said Federal Highway Administrator Norbert T. Tiemann would be here Saturday to help in the "Golden Link" ceremonies that are planned in connection with the official completion of Interstate 80 across Nebraska.

Ed Cole said he had been informed by Tiemann's office that the former Nebraska governor would be on hand. However, Cole said Thursday that another communication from Tiemann's office, which he was not aware of Monday, had been received, saying Tiemann would not be able to attend.

Bank Robbery Charges Filed

Des Moines (UPI) — Federal bank robbery charges were filed here Tuesday against Paul J. Mosier, 58, a native of Ohio, in connection with the Oct. 9 holdup of the patio branch office of the Council Bluffs Savings Bank.

The U.S. Attorney's Office said similar charges were being filed against Mosier in New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming and Colorado for bank holdups in those states.

Mosier was arrested in Denver, Colo., where he is currently being held. About $4,000 was taken in the Iowa robbery.

Queen Vote Oct. 23

A student vote for Homecoming Queen at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will be Oct. 23, not Wednesday, as erroneously reported in the Tuesday Star.

Firm Is Hired To Convert Hiram Scott's Dormitories

By The Associated Press
A North Platte firm has been hired to draw plans to convert dormitories at the former Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff to a Western Nebraska Veterans Home.

Gov. J. James Exon approved the contract with Associated Architects of North Platte.

The Department of Administrative Services also announced that Exon had okayed plans to be let for bid on the $200,000

John G. Neihardt Center to be built in Bancroft. The department said bids would be let this month.

The department approved plans for a food and nutrition building for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and a construction contract for a $284,900 activities and food service building for the Nebraska Center for Women at York. The general contract for the York project went to Kealy Construction Co. of Hastings.

LAP Candidates Reported

Twenty-two persons have indicated their intentions to campaign for low-income positions on the board of the Lincoln Action Program (LAP).

Candidates for the Oct. 29 election are:

Area I, Malone-Clinton — Frank Bear Killer, Patricia Johnson, Barbara Turner, Salle Sawyer, Carrie D. Hairl, and Shirley Roberts.

Workshop Set For Teachers

An all-day workshop on developing Retired Teachers Associations' programs will be Tuesday at the Villager Motel in Lincoln.

Representatives of local, state and regional groups, including Kansas City, Mo., will attend.

Area II, Lincoln High — Ora Lee Varnadoe and Opal Mae Hedden.

Area III, West A, West O and Van Dorn — Virginia Colley, Jackie Ferguson and Judy Widhelm.

Area IV, Belmont, Air Park and West Lincoln — Erwin Campbell, Doris Scott and Marge Harding.

Area V, College View, Bethany, University Place, Havelock — Robin Burbach, Peggy Varana and Barbara Paul.

Area VI, Rural Lancaster County — Marjorie Skaggs of Malcolm, Barbara Frink of Raymond, Donald L. Claw of Roca, Ann Higer of Firth and Ellen Jabs of rural Lincoln.

The polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. in low-income communities.

POSTCARD

SC
Delphine

San Francisco — "Drop in any time," said my grandfather hospitably, "as the old lady said when she fell in the river."

Kin folks visited us a lot. "It'd be downright sinful to spend good money for a hotel. We've got plenty of room," said grandma.

I was always sleeping with some cousin who kicked in his sleep and stole all the covers.

My grandfather said: "Don't bother to phone from the depot. Come right out to the house."

Lively times when I was swinging on a gate.

Sunny days around Snug Harbor. A touch of fall in the crisp morning air.

On the weekend I hosted a birthday party. The youngest boy reached 11 golden years.

I said: "What do you want, son? You need some new shirts. And some pants."

He said: "Gee, Dad! Clothes are boring. What I want is a pachinko machine. That's Joe Cool!"

Pachinko machines swept Japan a few years ago. May still be red-hot on the Ginza. I never got with them — they're a kind of upright pinball machine. But in pachinko parlors from Shimabashi to Roppongi, Japanese lined up to make the balls to — clink, clink, clink.

I checked around. I said: "Do you realize a pachinko machine costs $75."

He said: "Gee, Dad, everybody else has one."

It was an overnight party — I go big-time when I go. At dusk three boys arrived with sleeping bags. At 8 o'clock a boy phoned and said he needed a ride over.

I put down my martini (to warm up). I drove over and got him.

At 8 o'clock I went out and got Colonel Sanders famous fried chicken. When I got back four more boys had arrived.

My moppet said: "I invited some more kids. Is that OK?"

The chicken by this time was on the shorts. I just went around — not enough for me. But my son generously: "You could open some sardines."

We had a cake. I got those candies that magically relight after you blow them out. I said: "Anybody who can blow them gets $5!"

When I came back they cried: "We put them out!"

I said: "How in the world did you do it?"

They said: "We spit on them."

In the morning (while I groaned snugged) they had a water fight.

My offspring said: "Gee, Dad, we'll clean up. Really we will."

I said: "Listen, you guys. Don't wreck my house! Hear?"

A boy said: "Can you drive me home? I have to be home by 10."

I cranked up the car and chauffeured him home.

They said: "Are you going to take us to a pizza place? Like you promised?"

I took them all out for pizzas. Two boys said: "We have to be home by 1:30." I said: "Why didn't you tell me? It's 1:15 now."

I got them pizzas to take out and drove them home. When I got back I found the remaining boys had ordered more pizzas. When the pizzas came, they said: "We don't think we're hungry after all."

I drove them all home. I said to my boy: "It's your birthday. But do you know how much mileage you put on your father?"

He said: "Gee, Dad, it was a good party. Do you want me to get the gin?"

I said: "That's the first sensible word you've said all day."

Traffic Warning Systems Researched, Tested

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Anyone trapped in a hopeless traffic jam has wished for wings or at least enough warning the next time to prevent a repeat performance. John-Carl Whitmire reports from the Houston bureau of McGraw-Hill World News on how motorists may be helped.)

BY JOHN-CARL WHITMIRE
Houston — You may see the day when your windshield will visually warn you of a car wreck or congested traffic on the freeway ahead — in enough time for you to take an alternate route.

If you prefer to hear the warning instead of reading it, you may also be able to tune your radio to a special station that will supply similar information. Those are two of the many ideas and experimental concepts being researched and tested by the federal highway department, Texas A & M's Texas Transportation Institute (ITI) and various private companies like General Motors.

Researchers aren't sure yet what route to take in informing the freeway traveller — but they agree some information system is needed and "inevitable."

The car of the future may contain a device nestled in the dashboard that would take information relayed by a central surveillance system and display it onto the windshield, according to Raymond G. Biggs, project supervisor of the Texas Highway Department which is working with ITI in Houston. Biggs said the idea is being tested by GM and the federal highway dept.

Another idea, under consideration by ITI, would allow the driver to tune his radio to a prescribed point on the dial and receive freeway condition information relayed from either a central station or from various points along the freeway.

Also under consideration by ITI is a system of devices posted at critical points on an expressway.

Two key projects are now in use in Texas, and if successful, they may appear on the freeways you drive to and from work daily.

One is a rotating 3-sided drum with traffic information shown on each side above feeder roads. It is being used experimentally in Dallas.

Another is a large, lighted board that rates the freeway conditions. It grades from A, for good, to X, used only when the entire freeway is blocked. The grade is relative — depending on the time of day. For example, what may be a B condition during rush-hour traffic may be a D grade later, when traffic should be lighter.

It is capable of displaying 16 separate messages. It also warns the motorist how many miles ahead the jam-up is, if it is slow traffic, and what lane is blocked.

Other highway information systems and display devices are being used in New Jersey, Minneapolis, New York City and Los Angeles, where the board is capable of displaying 200 different messages.

Highlands Funding May Be OKd

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

For the first time, city Council members indicated Tuesday they may endorse a financing plan for the Highlands Subdivision which would allow the creation of a Sanitary and Improvement District (SID).

Omaha developer Gene Wilczewski, who is heading up the mammoth 1,000-acre development in northwest Lincoln, said everything is ready to go, except for construction of utilities to the site.

To finance those improvements, Wilczewski again proposed the creation of an SID — a separate governmental entity which would be charged with financing such improvements as water and sewer lines, lights, sidewalks and streets.

Problems Cited

In previous discussions with the developer, council members and city department heads have frowned upon the creation of SID's in Lincoln. Officials have cited problems that Omaha and other cities have had with SID's when districts flounder financially and call upon municipalities to bail them out.

Wilczewski's attorney, Norm Krivosha assured Council members that city fathers could be protected from such occurrences through contractual agreements with the developer.

The agreement would allow the city to annex the Highlands only after the debt was paid off or only when the city desired to annex the land, Krivosha said.

Even if an SID were created, he noted that the city would retain zoning jurisdiction over the land, because the site lies within the city's three-mile zoning jurisdiction. The tract lies south of U.S. highway 34, west of Interstate 80 and east of the Municipal Airport.

Bill Gourley, president of Dain, Kalman and Quail in Omaha, said his firm is proposing to underwrite the SID. Improvements may cost between $6 and $8 million, he said.

Gourley assured council members that he has had no problems with SID's and said he thinks the Highlands project has "the potential to stand on its own feet without a bail-out by the city or anyone else."

Although the developers urged the city to endorse the financing plan Monday, when the Highlands preliminary plat comes before the lawmakers for approval, Planning Director Doug Brogden urged the council to leave the door open.

Brogden said there are other alternatives. For instance, he said the city could annex the land and create improvement districts to put in utilities, a standard practice used in other subdivisions.

Financial Bind

However, Councilman John Robinson pointed out that the city's present financial bind over high interest rates has practically halted construction of streets and utilities in new subdivisions.

That money problem is caused by high interest rates charged on municipal bonds, a rate which is currently higher than the 6% ceiling imposed by the City Charter.

It is because of the bleak financial picture that council members appeared more receptive to the creation of an SID in the Highlands.

Council members requested department heads to prepare a report on the SID situation so that the council can discuss the matter further Monday when it considers the preliminary plat.

G. Gordon Liddy

Liddy Out After Judge Cuts Bond

Washington (UPI) — G. Gordon Liddy, silent member of the original Watergate break-in team, was released from jail on a sharply reduced $5,000 bond Tuesday after his attorneys promised a federal judge he would not flee the country.

Liddy was set free 90 minutes after U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell reduced the appeal bond from $100,000.

It Will Cost A Few Coins To Park At Muny Airport

It's going to cost airplane passengers a few coins to park their cars at the Municipal Airport under a plan adopted Tuesday by the Airport Authority.

The authority awarded a ten-year lease to APCOA, a division of ITT Consumer Services, to operate short term and long-term parking lots at the new terminal building.

The firm, which also operates airport parking lots at Omaha, Sioux Falls, Kansas City and numerous other cities, agreed to guarantee Lincoln $1,251,000 over the ten-year period.

Two other firms bid on the contract, Air Terminal Parking of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Parking, Inc., of Des Moines.

Other Amounts Bid

The Tennessee firm agreed to guarantee $1,286,000 over the ten-year period, while the Iowa firm agreed to a $1,400,000 minimum.

The authority will receive the minimum or a percentage of the income from the lots, whichever figure is higher.

Board members said they selected APCOA because the firm has had the most experience in operating airport parking concessions. Board members also pointed out that differences between the minimum amounts guaranteed by the three firms were marginal and were based on estimates of income.

The rate schedule adopted by the authority, which is lower than Omaha's fee schedule, calls for:

In the long-term lot, 35 cents for 0-2 hours; 50 cents for 2-4 hours; 75 cents for 4-8 hours; $1 for 8-12 hours; and $1.50 for 12-24 hours.

In the short-term lot, 25 cents for 0-1/2 hour; 25 cents for each additional hour and $2 maximum for 24 hours.

In other business the authority reluctantly agreed to pay an additional $8,456 to obtain furniture for the terminal lobby.

Last month, the board was told that the manufacturer could not deliver the furniture because the manufacturer had disposed of the last batch. Apparently, the frames discolor peoples' skins. The original furniture contract was $19,000.

Authority attorney Chauncy Barney reported that Frontier and United Airlines have requested they be allowed to move into the new terminal Dec. 30, instead of the planned pre-Thanksgiving move-in date.

Bar Group Gets OK To Develop System For Disciplining Lawyers

By The Associated Press

Admitting that public suspicion of the legal profession has increased dramatically since Watergate, the Nebraska Bar Association gained approval from the State Supreme Court Tuesday to develop a new system for disciplining errant lawyers.

The new procedures will shift much of the responsibility for investigating lawyers from peer committees to paid professional investigators.

Robert C. Blair, disciplinary counsel for the Bar Association, said there was no denying that Watergate had shaken public confidence in the legal profession.

Formal Place Given

Blair was hired March 15. The court decision Tuesday gives him a formal place as chief investigator in the disciplinary procedures of the Bar Association.

He, and a staff to be supported by member dues, will carry much of the burden of investigating attorneys suspected of unprofessional conduct.

A source close to the court, who did not wish to be identified, said the peer committees were weak because lawyers in rural areas were often hesitant to take action against friends and the peer committee in Omaha was overworked.

Blair agreed, saying "it's hard to investigate your neighbor." He also said that there was a limit to the amount of time attorneys could spend serving on committees without compensation.

Blair also stressed that the increase in the number of lawyers in the state was a major factor in the need for streamlined disciplinary procedures.

More Disbarments Expected

The source said he expected more attorneys to be disbarred under the new procedure.

Blair did not comment directly on the number of disbarments he expected, but indicated the speed and volume of investigations would increase.

Blair said the Supreme Court has disbarred about two lawyers per year since 1938.

The Bar Association offered 10 proposals to the court to upgrade the quality of lawyers licensed to practice law in Nebraska. Chief Justice Paul White announced Tuesday that the court had accepted the proposals and asked the Bar Association to 'rewrite the proposals in the form of rules and regulations.'

Date Not Set

White did not announce an effective date for the new regulations. Presumably, they will not go into effect until they are rewritten and bar dues are increased to pay for an investigative staff.

Blair said the reforms had been in the works for several years, and he did not want to give "too much credit" to State Sen. Ernest Chambers, who has been a vocal critic of the bar.

Most of the ten proposals upgrade the status of the professional investigators. One requires periodic changes in the membership of the peer committees in each of the 21 judicial districts.

Another allows a disciplinary committee to force a lawyer to take a medical exam or "other professional examination" to determine if he is capable of practicing law.

1,117 Enroll At NWU

Enrollment at Nebraska Wesleyan University if 1,117, according to a report released by Irene Wieggers, registrar.

That is three more than the total this time last year, she said. It includes 550 men and 567 women.

Chess Tourney Opens Friday

A Midwest Open Chess Tournament is scheduled for Friday through Sunday at the Nebraska Union, 14th and R Streets.

Tournament rounds will be 8 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday, and 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Sunday. Registration is 7 p.m. Friday.

The top Nebraska scorer receives $150 and a 34-inch state championship trophy. Other winners share 80% of the entry fees.

HALLOWEEN IS COMING!

Halloween is coming! This is a time of year that youngsters of all ages look forward to the snappy fall days and evenings that make parties more fun.

Why not entertain the grown-ups after they take the children trick-or-treating, or after the football game with a do-ahead late supper party. Make-it-easy decorations using fall vegetables and fruits heaped in a large bowl will set the stage for this fun party. Set your table or buffet before you leave for the evening. Then all that's left to do is re-heat the food and put it into appropriate serving dishes!

- Chili Con Carne*
- Double Corn Chowder*
- Relish Plate
- Bread Sticks Assorted Crackers
- Old Fashioned Caramel Apples*
- Beverages

Simmer your favorite Chili Con Carne and this excitingly different Chowder early in the day. The flavors will be better blended and party-time will be easier for the hostess.

If you need assistance with your menus, recipes, or if you would like other information, please write to me; I'll be glad to help.

CHILI CON CARNE

- |  |                                       |
|--|---------------------------------------|
| 2 lb. lean ground beef or chick roast, cubed | 1 - 16 oz. can tomatoes               |
| 1 c. onion, chopped                          | 2 - 15 oz. cans pinto or kidney beans |
| ½ tsp. garlic powder                         | 2 c. water                            |
| 3 tsp. chili powder                          | 2 c. cheddar cheese, grated           |
| 1 tsp. cumin powder                          |                                       |
| salt to taste                                |                                       |
- Brown beef in small amount of hot fat in a deep kettle. Add onions, cook until tender. Drain any excess fat. Add remaining ingredients. Boil and simmer about 2 hours. Top with cheese and serve. Makes 8-10 servings.

DOUBLE CORN CHOWDER

- |                                 |  |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 5 slices bacon                  | 1 - 16 oz. can whole kernel corn               |
| 1 - 16 oz. can cream style corn | 1 medium onion (thinly sliced)                 |
| 1 cup diced, pared raw potatoes | 1 - 10½ oz. can condensed cream of celery soup |
| 1½ cup milk                     | 1 tsp. butter or margarine                     |
- In a large saucepan, cook bacon until crisp. Remove bacon, retaining drippings. Add onion, potatoes, ½ tsp. salt, and ½ cup water. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add corn, soup, milk and margarine. Heat thoroughly. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Crumble bacon over surface just before serving. Serves six to eight.

CARAMEL APPLES

- (for trick-or-treaters of all ages)
- |                                  |                  |
|----------------------------------|------------------|
| 1 - 14 oz. pkg. vanilla caramels | 2 tsp. water     |
| dash salt                        | 6 wooden skewers |
| 6 medium unpared crisp apples    | chopped nuts     |
- Melt caramels and water in top of double boiler, stirring frequently until smooth. Add salt. Insert skewer in blossom end of apple. Dip each apple and coat the bottom half. Add a few drops of water to the syrup if it gets too stiff. Roll apples in chopped nuts. Set on waxed paper and chill until firm.

Election—1974

SeTech College's Board Faces Voters For 1st Time

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

For the first time voters will elect area board members of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College, to govern the SeTech campuses in Fairbury, Lincoln and Milford.

Current board members, appointed by the governor, have been dealing with growing pains and setting the direction of the SeTech Area since July 1, 1973, when the Legislature created the Nebraska community college concept.

The fledgling SeTech board inherited the Lincoln Technical School from the Lincoln Public Schools, and the old Fairbury Junior College and Milford Vocational-Technical School. In mid-1974, the board directed a wholesale reorganization in operating the three campuses.

Still to be smoothed out are wrinkles in management, consolidation of the scattered-site Lincoln campus, and meeting vocational and continuing education demands for new programs.

11 Members
The board has 11 members, two from each of five districts and one at large. General election candidates are running for two or four-year terms; the at-large member will serve a two-year term. In subsequent elections, candidates will run for six-year terms. There is no salary.

Mannschreck Vs. Wright
In the 1st District, incumbent Howard R. Mannschreck, 31, faces a challenge by Lloyd V. Wright, 78, for a two-year term.

Mannschreck, of Fairbury, holds a bachelors degree from the University of Nebraska and is a farm equipment dealer. A past board member of the Fairbury Junior College (now the SeTech Fairbury campus), he also served on the local school board and city planning commission.

Wright, of Reynolds, is a farm manager and attended Iowa State University and NU. He is a past member of the State Board of Education and the local school board.

Doyle Vs. Ebers
For a four-year 1st District term, Ted Doyle of Fairbury is challenging incumbent SeTech Board Chairman Merle Ebers of Beaver Crossing.

Ebers is a former science teacher and school district superintendent and currently administers an educational service unit. Ebers has a fiscally conservative record in voting on SeTech budget matters.

Doyle is a sales representative for Cominco American. He holds a school administrators' certificate and is an NU graduate. He is a member of the Civil Service Commission.

Schlaphoff Vs. Nestor
In the 2nd District, Betty Schlaphoff of Waverly is challenging incumbent Ruth Dowling Nestor of Tecumseh, for a two-year term.

A housewife and part-time assistant bank cashier, Mrs. Schlaphoff holds a bachelors degree from Nebraska Wesleyan University and is a Grange and PTA member. She is a past member of the school system citizen's committee and has worked on school curriculums.

Mrs. Nestor, past vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, has one of the best attendance records at SeTech board meetings, but rarely participates in discussing any board matters.

Gerken Vs. Draper
Clay Gerken of Palmyra is bidding for a four-year seat now held by Loretta Draper of Plattsmouth, also in the 2nd District.

Gerken, 65, is a psychologist. He earned bachelors and masters degrees from Oklahoma University and a doctorate from Iowa University. He is a member of the Palmyra Action League.

Mrs. Draper, 31, is a high school graduate. During her SeTech tenure, she has been the board representative on the State Board of Technical Community Colleges.

The treasurer of Democratic Women, Mrs. Draper is a Democratic State Central Committee member and past PTA officer.

Incumbent Marjorie E. Haessler, of Wahoo, runs unopposed for a two-year term in the 3rd District. A housewife and part-time secretary, Mrs. Haessler attended Midland College and is a past Democratic county chairman.

Carstens Vs. Wunderlich
In District 3, incumbent Gary Carstens of Beatrice runs for a four-year term against L. LaRue Wunderlich, of Roca.

Carstens, manager of an anhydrous ammonia plant, has a fiscally conservative record on the board.

Mrs. Wunderlich attended NU and is a homemaker. Active in the Women's Lobby, she is a Democratic Women's Club member.

Earl E. Kraft, of 440 Jeffrey Drive, Lincoln, runs unopposed in District 4 for a two-year term. Fourth District seats are now held by Edward Coppel and Board Secretary Larry G. Hermann, both of Lincoln, who did not seek re-election. Coppel was appointed — with the understanding he would not run — to fill the unexpired term of Fern Hubbard Orme, who resigned.

Rogge Vs. Brauer
William E. Rogge and Katherine Ann Brauer are running for the open four-year term in the 4th District.

Rogge, of 620 E. Eldora Lane, Lincoln, is a junior high math teacher and coach. He holds a bachelors degree from Augustana College, Sioux Falls, S.D., and a masters from NU. He is a doctoral candidate.

Brauer, of 1631 F, Lincoln, holds a bachelors degree from NU and sits on the Lincoln Women's Political Caucus board. A teacher, she is a member of the National and Nebraska State Education Associations.

For the 5th District seat now held by Don Ferguson of Lincoln, who did not seek re-election, Vince Colo'n and Don Nielsen are vying for a two-year term.

Nielsen, 7631 Englewood Drive, Lincoln, is Notifier Engineering Co. general manager. He is president of the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs board and a director for county and regional health planning councils. Nielsen is past chairman of the Community College Citizens Advisory Committee steering panel.

Colo'n, 7731 Sandalwood Drive, Lincoln, is a merchant. He holds an associate degree from York College and masters and doctorate degrees from NU. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce public relations committee and Goodwill Industries.

Pokorny Vs. Wekesser
John E. Pokorny is challenging incumbent Robert A. Wekesser for a four-year term in the 5th District.

Wekesser, 5301 A, Lincoln, is a banker and holds a bachelors degree from NU and a masters from Columbia University. He is a past member of the Lincoln Board of Education.

Pokorny, 3535 Woodbine, Lincoln, is a writer. He earned a bachelors degree from NU and a masters from Reed College.

Dunlap Vs. Haas
In the at-large race for a two-year term, incumbent G. Alan Dunlap runs against T. O. Haas.

Board Treasurer Dunlap, 48, Milford, is a banker. He attended NU and Colorado College, and earned a masters degree in business administration from Harvard. He is Minority Business Task Force Director, out-of-state college trustee, and serves on the NU Wesley House operating council, the NU Extension Service, Livestock development committee and Beef Industry Task Force.

Haas, 58, 510 Windsor Drive, Lincoln, is president of T. O. Haas Tire Co. A high school graduate, Haas attended industrial schools. He is president of the West O Businessmen and Civic Association and a Junior Achievement Corp. adviser-director. He was also adviser to the Lincoln Technical College, now the SeTech Lincoln campus.

Political Forum For Demos Set

State and local Democratic candidates will share a Political Forum 8 p.m. Thursday at the Nebraska Union, 14th and R Streets.

It is sponsored by Lancaster County and University of Nebraska Young Democrats.

Saturday Banquet Set

A Nebraska National Guard Officers Association banquet will be Saturday night at the American Legion Club in Lincoln, not Friday night as erroneously reported in the Tuesday Star.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Time Shift 'No Problem'

By United Press International
Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer said Tuesday there are no questions surrounding daylight savings time in Nebraska.

Responding to reports that there was possibly a question on the legalities of going off daylight savings time on Oct. 27 as per a new federal law, Meyer said "I don't know of any problem involved."

The state will go off daylight savings time and that's about it, he said.

The reports indicated Meyer and others were in a quandary because not only is there a new federal law on the subject, but the Legislature passed a law on the same subject this year.

The state law in question, Meyer noted, simply says that the right time in Nebraska will be that fixed by Congress.

Local Diet Clubs Help Members Battle The Bulges

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Linda Keller, now 30, was a senior in high school when she started putting on the weight.

Once she lost 70 pounds but couldn't keep it off. "I didn't know how to start in re-eating again," she said. "When I sat down to eat a piece of pie I ate half the pie."

"I didn't eat and tried every diet under the sun," she recalled. "You name it I tried it — grapefruit and egg, three bananas a day, all meat, cottage cheese — until about 10 o'clock (in the morning) then I'd go back to the sweet rolls."

And Mrs. Keller tried all the tricks to disguise her obesity: She refused to wear swim suits; she pinned together her long-line bra and long-legged girdle so the bulges wouldn't pop out between; she used rubber bands as blouse extenders to make them buttonable.

And she put up with the insufferable public comments; then went home and wept in solitude.

At five-foot-seven, she tipped the scales at 199½ — "I know I went higher than that." Then she discovered Weight Watchers. "I went in as a last resort," Mrs. Keller admitted, adding that she lost nine pounds the first week on the prescribed, well-balanced diet. In little more than eight months, she lost 44 pounds, in addition to the 20 she had taken off before joining.

She's a believer in the program. All the weight-reducing clubs have their individual philosophies and their success stories. Those who have successfully lost weight by participating in the clubs become fanatics in their own right. They have dropped the foodaholic tag — and have become clubaholics, speaking almost evangelically about the program that helped them.

The Weight Watchers, the Take Off Pounds Sensibly, the Overeaters Anonymous and the other weight-loss groups around town give their members a new lease on life — a new, slender outlook — through a form of group therapy.

Being in a room full of people who share their problem provides the necessary camaraderie that enables them to stick with it, to refuse a dessert or second helping, to stay away from the refrigerator and the sweets.

Most members of those groups, when given the opportunity to discuss their individual experiences, agree with Mrs. Keller that they had "tried everything;" that they had often lost the excess baggage but couldn't pass the refrigerator without stopping for a nibble, couldn't control the urge to eat once the extra pounds were off; that they turned to their groups out of desperation.

But the technique that works for one person may not do the same for another.

Some charge dues; others do not. Some give the opportunity to discuss one's failures and needs; others provide lecturers to reeducate members on good eating habits. Some use incentives to encourage weight loss; others do not. Some are founded in "belief in a higher spirit"; others are based on fellowship.

Cheryl, a mother and homemaker in rural Lincoln, was near a nervous breakdown — "I realized I was so desperately unhappy with myself" — when she discovered Overeaters Anonymous (OA).

Hearing news of other women who had successfully lost weight by having their jaws wired shut, she asked her dentist to perform that service for her. He refused, but recommended she look into Overeaters Anonymous which is based on the philosophy of Alcoholics Anonymous — a form of group therapy — and provides recovery for "people addicted to food."

Cheryl wasn't always overweight. She was an avid competitor in swimming meets in her school days, but with marriage and motherhood and the lack of competition, she failed to change her eating habits to compensate for the fact that she wasn't burning it off as rapidly.

"When I get upset, I eat," she said. "I was desperately unhappy with myself . . . It was a vicious circle."

Then the five-foot-one-inch homemaker started attending OA and has lost 70 pounds since February, dropping from 220 to 150 — she has 40 more to lose before reaching her goal.

According to the contact person for OA, the organization is for persons who admit "they are compulsive overeaters."

At meetings, "People get up and tell their experiences. We try to give each other help in maintaining their weight," she said.

OA offers its dues-paying members low-carbohydrate or low-calorie diets or the option of following a doctor's diet.

Ruth Scanlon was turned on to Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS) by an Avon lady.

She "came to my door and . . . asked right away what I do on Thursday mornings," she said.

Mrs. Scanlon began going to those Thursday morning TOPS meetings and lost more than 50 pounds in eight months, following a physician-prescribed diet. Now she has graduated to Keep Off Pounds Sensibly (KOPS).

TOPS clubs operate on the philosophy of weighing in plus incentives — some have contest prizes and other cash awards for the best loser of the week.

Everyone gives his or her status report — not actual weight, but in amounts lost.

However, according to Mrs. Scanlon, "Weighing in is the best incentive to be sure you try to lose every week."

Another incentive is the distribution of charms for accomplishments. "I have a whole bracelet full," said Mrs. Scanlon proudly.

Other established organizations help persons lose weight through exercise programs — but those are primarily for persons who want to get back into shape and who want to lose just a few pounds.

Among those are the Roman Health Spa and World Fitness Center.

The spa has members of both sexes, but women make up 80% of the total, the manager admitted. World Fitness Center is for women only, said Lois Michals, owner.

Both direct their clients in individualized diets and assist them in finding the correct exercise procedures to firm up their bodies.

Men are involved in weight-reducing organizations, but admittedly in proportionately smaller numbers.

Andy Barna, Lincoln-area manager of Weight Watchers, lost 137 pounds, going from 297 to 140, in nine months. He now is Weight Watchers' executive chef.

"I had been on diets all my life," he said. His sister, a registered nurse, told him of the world-wide corporation.

"We had a big fight," Barna recalled. "I decided since I had tried everything else I might as well try another . . . I went with the idea it wouldn't work." But it did.

He said Weight Watchers adheres to the principle of "reeducation in an established discipline and (positive) motivation."

Over the last five years, Nebraska and Iowa members of Weight Watchers have lost more than two million pounds, Barna noted proudly.

Drug Freak May Stay Clean

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, whom I'll call Betty, is 26, a college graduate and has never given us a moment's worry — until now. Betty wants to marry Ron, a 34-year-old college professor who has used LSD off and on for three years. She said Ron promised to give up drugs three months ago and she is sure he will keep his promise. (Betty has never used drugs.)

Betty's doctor advised her not to risk having children because of her fiancé's history with LSD, so she intends to remain childless or adopt. Naturally, this hurts us deeply.

We think Betty should wait and make Ron prove himself before marrying him. So far we have avoided meeting him, which has made Betty very cool and distant to us.

We don't want to attend her wedding, let alone foot the bill for it. Are we wrong?

BETTY'S PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Yes, I can understand your concern and heartache over the fact that your daughter has chosen to marry a man who has been into drugs, but at 26, she's an adult and is entitled to make her own decisions — right or wrong.

Meet Ron. It will improve your relationship with Betty immediately. Don't foot the bill for a wedding if you don't want to, but do attend. It's entirely possible that Ron will stay clean, I hope so. Think positive.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I buy my husband a gift, his mother says to me in front of company, "You didn't buy him anything. It was bought and paid for with HIS MONEY."

You see, I have never worked outside the house, but I am raising four children, and I keep a clean house and cook good meals and I've made the children's clothes and my own since they were tots.

What do you say? Do I earn any of the money I save from the household allowance he gives me, or not?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: You probably "earn" a lot more than you get.

DEAR ABBY: When I graduated from high school, a well-to-do uncle who lived in Portland sent me a check for $100. I put it in my billfold intending to bank it. I failed to write and thank him for it immediately as I should have. I didn't get around to banking it (or trying to) until three months later.

When I tried to bank the check, I found that he had stopped payment on it! Then I received a letter from my uncle saying that since he didn't hear from me for three months, he assumed the check had been lost. In a sense, it was. I "lost" 100 bucks, but I learned a lesson about promptness I'll never forget

A young farmer and his bride walk along the field against the landscape of their courting days. From this day on, their life together will evolve around their land, a commitment so beautifully suggested in Archie Liberman's photograph from his new book "Farm Boy" (Harry M. Abrams).

Farm Wives Are United For Power

By BARBARA UTLEY

There's a tradition down on the farm that the farmer's wife helps out wherever she sees a place to do things. The happy ones understand this before they ever say their wedding vows — if they love the land and farming.

Of course, you have to have plenty of know-how, which doesn't always come easy. But in time, they say, you learn how to scrub the milk house, quickly; bale the hay and drive the tractor when needed. And, naturally, you don't neglect your chickens in the meantime — for that's women's work along with cooking, canning and feeding the calves with the children.

Now hundreds of farm wives see an additional way to help their husband — with field work of another kind, developing women power in the total agriculture industry. It is a chore that has to be done, reasons Nancy Smidle, who lives near Kewanee, Wis.

Ms. Smidle heads Wisconsin Women for Agriculture (WWA), whose members aim to ban together with wives in similar groups from Stockholm, Me., to Wapato, Wash., to form a national organization "like the one in Canada where women have a voice."

They have several goals. First, they want to let state legislators, congressmen and other women, especially those in the urban areas, know that farming today is not an easy life, and never was, and is getting tougher as the prices of feed and seed, fertilizer, fuel, credit and machinery go up.

Second, they want support in their efforts to stave off the financial disaster they foresee as high costs erode the farmer's financial base at a time when nature has not been overly kind.

The farmers' woes are staggering, and many a Mrs. Farmer thinks her husband should complain more, at home and elsewhere. "When our husbands get together they don't like to admit to each other that they are so far in debt they can't make it," says Ms. Smidle, who operates a large dairy farm with her husband David.

Ms. Smidle believes conditions will improve faster if farm wives take a united stand. This is why she will be on hand when a national convention of farm women convenes Nov. 12 in Milwaukee, Wis., under the sponsorship of Farm Wife News, and will work for a formal coalition of the Wisconsin Women for Agriculture, Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan, Washington Women for Agriculture, Grain Business Wives, Ohio Cowbells, United Farm Wives of Missouri, Oregon Women for Agriculture, Women for Agriculture in Maine, Illinois Women for Agriculture and others.

"We are going to see if we can form a coalition and organize a hot line so that we can exchange information and act on problems when we need to," says Ms. Smidle, who helped form the WWA a year ago.

WWA members are typical of the other farm wives who are just beginning to make themselves heard. They have been speaking to women's organizations such as the League of Women Voters. They have sent 1,000 letters on milk-pricing to members of Congress. And they are appearing on radio programs.

"We feel," said Ms. Smidle, "that we are being faced with financial ruin and someone must see that this is happening."

They are not against consumers, insists Ms. Smidle, because farmers and farm families are consumers, too. She says the farm wives simply want the consumer to understand more clearly what is involved in the production of food for the tables.

The farm wives who have been forming their own state organizations have become disenchanted with the existing groups not only because of the diffusible voices but also because they are all male. They object to being merely auxiliary members.

They also take a dim view of the farm cooperatives being run by men only. The women claim that since the husbands are the ones who are billed for purchases, their names are on the stock. Consequently, the men are the voting members of the co-ops, and they elect men to the boards of directors.

Farm women, at least those who have been organizing, are urging joint tenancy stock that would permit the husband and wife to have a vote.

Carol Wisnicky, a WWA member, brings up another point. She says that farmers get a lot of mail dealing with agriculture and much of it doesn't get read because of farming demands. The wives can make the time to read, she says, and thus be in a better position to study issues and discuss them with husbands and other farmers, as well as the "outside" world.

So far, at monthly meetings, the farm women have delved into grain exporting, the futures market, nutrition, marketing of commodities, parity pricing and other related matters. The topics involve a lot more than chicken feed, and the farm wives are well aware of this.

Women Shouldn't Bear Brunt Of Social Change

"I've always thought that what I was writing was not just about women. The women's movement is not so much about women as about social change and power — or powerlessness —"

So says Elizabeth Janeway, author, social historian, lecturer, and critic, whose new book "Between Myth and Morning: Women Awakening" pulls together her thoughts recorded over the last two decades.

Mrs. Janeway, a novelist whose first book was published in 1943, wrote her first book of nonfiction, the highly-acclaimed "Man's World, Woman's Place" in 1971.

"One of men's blinders in coping with women's demands is that they see them as private matters," Mrs. Janeway says, "when in fact they are the result of great social changes affecting families." The fact these changes have focused on the family, the community, and the world of work shows us just how profound the changes have been — because they get into the business of the little details of our living together.

Women are the pioneers and survivors in coping with the adjustments change has wrought and they therefore "have useful suggestions and insights to offer men," she adds.

The working wife-and-mother is nothing new, Mrs. Janeway shows in her new book. In fact, the stereotype of women as "dependent, subordinate, passive supports to the dominant male" has throughout history hardly ever applied to the majority of women "outside ladies of cities on the eastern seaboard," Mrs. Janeway notes.

"Frontier women didn't play that role; hardworking farmwives didn't play it," and "for every fainting southern belle there were ten southern women who knew what it meant to chop cotton, milk a cow and tend a barnyard, or look after six looms in a textile plant."

But until this century, the woman supplemented the family income by working at home, be it at farming or cottage industry. Moreover she had the help of relatives or servants. The children pitched in, too, so that youngsters grew up understanding what it meant to earn a living.

But now, "for the first times in history, no one, male or female can make an adequate living at home." Mothers are forced to carry on their age-old economic function away from home, working not as a luxury but as a necessity.

This has produced a dilemma: "Their earnings are needed to support the family, but in order to win them, they (mothers) must leave the children whose support is sustained by these earnings." Today half the women with children between six and 18 work outside the home.

What's even more wrenching in terms of changes affecting the family is that the modern "isolation of the family from the wider world of activity."

The father is no longer very much involved in child-raising (which is as great a change from the past as the removal of the Mother from the home).

The children are, due to our highly mobile society, isolated from relatives, neighbors, and, due to highly stratified suburbs, from people of different ages, races, and backgrounds.

Mother no longer has an "extended family" or household help to ease her burden and, since mom and dad go away to work, the children "haven't a clue" as to what the world of work is all about. This latter point may have a great deal to do with young people's "alienation," Mrs. Janeway notes.

Caught in the middle of all these changes, women have "problems that are not of our making," she adds. And yet women "feel personally responsible — worse, they feel guilty — if they can't manage to hold down an interesting and demanding job, run a household, manage a marriage and raise children who will be happy, adjusted and successful — and do this all by themselves."

The truth is, though, Mrs. Janeway points out, that "nobody in the world has ever managed to do that all by herself, not since the beginning of time. And if we sit around and imagine that not doing it is our fault, and finding a solution is up to us and can be done by our single efforts, we are behaving like a lot of patsies."

The world has changed, she argues, and women have borne the brunt of that change. But the rational thing to do is for women to push for social changes that will ease these pressures.

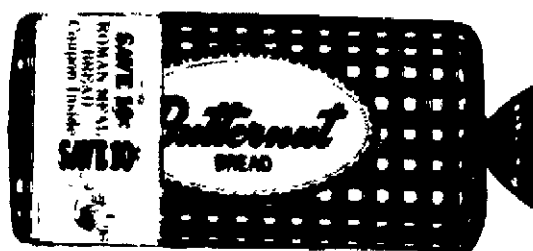

One thing women — and men — can do is to work for more and better child care facilities, not priced beyond the reach of the average working family. Another is to encourage the development of all kinds of community activities — be it Little League, or chess clubs, or block improvement associations — where modern isolated families can "learn to relate to all sorts of other people and find strengths and solutions by comparing experiences."

All Won't Be As Bright As Weather During Ford's Visit

President Ford has some things going for and against him when he visits Lincoln on Wednesday.

The good news is that the weather is going to be excellent. Glenn Wilson, executive director of the Republican State Central Committee says so.

"It's not going to rain," Wilson says; and that's good because there are no contingency plans for a rainout. The U.S. Weather Bureau agrees with Wilson, forecasting mostly sunny and warmer with highs in the 70s.

If it does rain so hard that Ford can't land, the President will fly on to his next stop, Indianapolis, "and the crowd gets wet," Wilson said. "But it is not going to rain!"

Republican Territory
Another positive for Ford is that Lancaster County is still Republican territory, although barely.

The county is represented by a Republican congressman, Charles Thone, who hopes to gain some voter support by a presidential visit.

But all is not bright for Ford's visit even if the weather will be.

The dark spot on the county GOP glitter is that now Lancaster County Democrats are almost equal in voter strength to Republicans. Recent registration figures show there are 40,852 Republicans and 40,607 Democrats.

Ford's plane is to land at Lincoln's Municipal Airport shortly after 2 p.m.

Governor To Leave

The President will be welcomed to the state by Congressman Thone and Democratic Gov. J. James Exon — although as a member of the opposition party the governor will give a short speech and then will leave, a procedure suggested to him by the Secret Service.

Ford will speak for about 25 minutes in behalf of Republican candidates in Nebraska's general election No. 5. Those candidates are Thone, Second District incumbent Rep. John Y. McCollister of Omaha, Third District hopeful Mrs. Virginia Smith, and Sen. Richard Marvel, who is trying to oust Exon.

Thone and Marvel will make short speeches.

Also appearing with Ford will be Secretary of State Allen Beerman; Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh, who is running for state treasurer; attorney general candidate Paul Douglas, Auditor Ray A.C. Johnson, plus Eric Rasmussen and Jack Romans, candidates for Public Service Commission.

None of Nebraska's congressional delegation, except for Thone, will attend the presidential visit because of votes on pending legislation.

Bands To Greet Ford

Besides politicians, bands will also welcome

Ford. High schoolers from Wahoo, Nebraska City, York and Lincoln East High will hail the chief.

Other sharing the limelight with Ford and the candidates will be: Dee Graham of Omaha, state Republican vice chairman; Mrs. Roman L. Hruska, wife of Nebraska's senior senator, who will not be attending; Mrs. John Y. McCollister, wife of the Second District congressman; and Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

Thone's opponent in the November election, Hess Dyas, says he is glad Ford is stopping in Lincoln, but he wishes Ford would listen to "average Nebraska taxpayers, rather than speak on behalf of my incumbent Republican opponent."

"I believe President Ford would find that many people don't like the idea of a tax surcharge (a Ford proposal to help stem inflation) at a time when they can barely make ends meet."

Not Only Critic

Dyas isn't the only critic. A coalition of Lincoln groups plans to carry signs against Ford during the visit.

Members of the Nebraska Dispatch (a counterculture newspaper), Lincoln American Indian Movement, Free Theater of Lincoln, the Mexican-American Student Association, Western Plains Video and Nebraskans for Peace will carry placards protesting inflation, lack of amnesty for Indochina War resisters, the pardon of Nixon and Wounded Knee trials.

Lincoln police will join the Nebraska State Patrol, Lancaster County sheriff's deputies in supplementing Secret Service protection.

Since Ford is speaking at planeside, security is not the problem it would be if he were to motorcade through Lincoln.

Foreign Officials Will Attend Ed Confab

More than 100 participants from 12 Midwest states and several foreign countries will visit Lincoln next Tuesday and Wednesday for an inaugural conference on international education.

The response to this conference has been extraordinary to say the least," according to Dr. Roberto Esquenazi-Mayo, director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The institute and the American Council on Education are co-sponsoring the program.

Participants in the conference, entitled "International Education for the 21st Century — A Midwestern Perspective," will include representatives of agribusiness, banking, education, government and private foundations.

The U. S. Department of State will be represented as well the embassies of Sweden, Malaysia, Liberia, Jamaica, Tanzania, India, Thailand, Republic of China and Gabon.

Highest ranking foreign representative at the conference will be the ambassador from Venezuela, Dr. Manguel A. Burelli.

The conference will develop resolutions and recommendations for new policies and programs in the field of international education.

Discussions will be held

Wednesday with foundations and government agencies on funding such programs.

The American Council on Education hopes the conference will be the first in a series to be held throughout the United States, university officials said.

Represented in the inaugural conference will be Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan, North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri and Minnesota.

Mishap Leaves Boy, 9, Critical

Omaha (AP) — A 9-year-old boy was in critical condition at a hospital Monday as the result of a hanging accident at his home.

Police said a sister found Michael P. Cruz hanging from a belt in the basement. Police said there was no evidence of foul play.

Emphasis On 'Forage' Cattle Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — Livestock research should shift toward "forage oriented" cattle production and away from production based on grain feeding, according to Dr. Frank Baker, chairman of the University of Nebraska Animal Science Department.

"If future technology permits the production of beef mainly from forage, the world will continue to eat beef in increasing quantities," Baker said. "This will be true because of the vast supply of forage available in the world from land resources that cannot or will not be used directly for grain production."

Baker's remarks were prepared for delivery at a Tuesday meeting of the American Meat Institute.

Baker cited three areas of opportunity that will help meet the national demand for beef with less dependence on grain:

—Forage from land unsuited for grain production.

—New and improved forage plants and management skills.

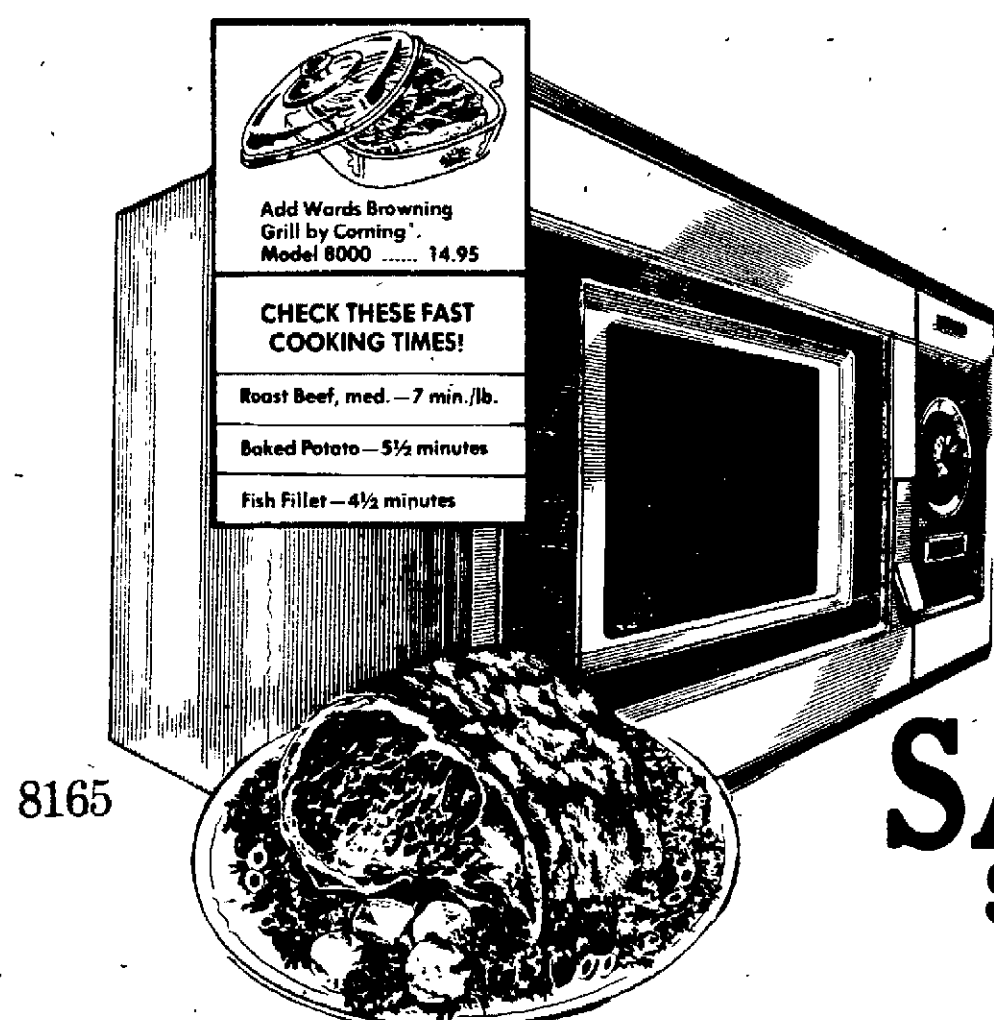

—Forage and fibrous feeds which are by-products of grain production.

He said the ruminant stomach of the beef animal can use grasses and other substances not otherwise useful to man as a food supply.

He said that is "probably the beef industry's greatest single asset."

Ex-ISU Coach John, 55, Dies

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Former Iowa State University head basketball Coach Maury John died Tuesday night.

The coach died at Mary Greeley Hospital in Ames.

Ironically, John, 55, died on the first day of Iowa State's basketball practice.

He had been hospitalized since Saturday.

John's death came 2½ months after he resigned as head basketball coach of the Cyclones because of a deteriorating physical condition, and less than a year after he was told he had cancer.

Officials at the hospital did not immediately list the cause of death.

The coach was told last December that he had an inoperable malignant tumor at the base of his esophagus.

He underwent surgery in late December at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and it was then that the cancer was discovered.

The coach was periodically given chemotherapy until mid-summer, when his condition forced his resignation from the coaching staff.

His last coaching effort was Dec. 15th, when the Cyclones played Drake University.

The ailing coach was succeeded by his assistant, Gus Guydon, who was named temporary head coach.

ISU Coach Dies

Before coming to Iowa 16 years ago, John coached at Moberly, Mo., Junior College. He claimed two national junior college championships and eight state championships.

Four times he was named Missouri Valley Conference Coach of the Year while serving at Drake.

John amassed a 285-58 record in Moberly, 206-130 at Drake and 32-25 in slightly over two years at Iowa State.

John is survived by sons Dr. Maurice John Jr., an ophthalmologist in Louisville, Ky.; John John, senior member of this year's Cyclone basketball team and his widow, Jean.

His two sons and wife were at his bedside when he died.

Barnes' Injury Alters Lineup For Jayhawks

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Injury to starting defensive end Leslie Barnes forced Kansas football Coach Don Fambrough to juggle his defense Tuesday as the Jayhawks prepared for Nebraska this week.

Barnes, 6-foot-2, 210-pound sophomore, suffered strained ligaments in his knee against Kansas State last week. Fambrough termed Barnes "doubtful" to play against the Cornhuskers.

Rick Kovatch, 6-foot-2 and 220-pound junior, moved to first unit end and freshman Tom Dinkel was switched from tackle to end for added depth.

Fambrough also announced an offensive change, saying freshman speedster Bill Campfield would return kickoffs against Nebraska. Campfield is the Jayhawks' second unit tailback.

Early-Age Farm Chores Aid Oakland's Hunter

©The New York Times
By DAVE ANDERSON

Oakland, Calif. — He grew up on a farm in Hertford, N.C., where his chores with the cows and the crops came first.

"On a farm you learn to do today's work today," Jim (Catfish) Hunter was saying. "You learn to get your job done."

His job is baseball now, but his upbringing is perhaps more important to him than ever. Catfish Hunter is involved in a contractual dispute with Charles O. Finley over $50,000 in deferred income that the owner of the Oakland A's has allegedly declined to pay. But the 29-year-old right-handed pitcher, who shared the spotlight with Ferguson Jenkins of Texas as the major leagues' leading winner during the recent season with 25 victories, is working to confine the squabble to the toolshed of his mind.

In a rare appearance as a relief pitcher in the World Series opener, his job was to get the final out of the A's 3-2 triumph. He struck out Joe Ferguson on five pitches.

He has had disputes with Finley before, as virtually all the A's have. And yet he has won 161 games, including 88 in the last four seasons. He has also won three American league championship series games and three World Series games.

"I've never seen a man pitch with more determination," says Darold Knowles, an A's pitcher. "He's a deadly professional."

"He just pushes the pressure aside," says Paul Lindblad, Hunter's roommate. "He just sets his mind to do something."

Charles O. Finley was reminded of hunter's determination last month.

After a weekend series in Texas, the A's had an open date on Monday before playing in Kansas City, where they once were based. Hunter was among several A's who planned to hunt doves there on Monday at a friend's farm, as they had for many years. They requested Finley's permission to leave Dallas on a mid-night flight instead of waiting until Monday morning when the team departed.

"No," replied Finley, "and if anybody leaves ahead of the team, it's a thousand dollars a man."

Suddenly a day of dove hunting wasn't worth $1,000 fine to the other A's but Hunter shook his head.

"I'm goin' anyway," he said.

His teammates decided to join him. But when Finley realized they hadn't traveled with the team, he met with them. He didn't fine them, claiming he had only been concerned about the possibility of a shotgun accident. But the determination of Hunter was obvious.

He's equally determined to challenge

Finley on the contractual dispute. If the two-year contract is judged null and void, Hunter would be a free agent. As such he would be available to the highest bidder. If the other major league teams declined to sign him, baseball would expose itself to antitrust suit. If the A's attempted to sign him to a new contract, Finley would have to offer him much more than the $100,000 stipulated when Catfish signed the contract now in question. Catfish's ambition had been to be the A's first $100,000 pitcher.

"I didn't go to arbitration," Hunter said before the season began. Mr. Finley called me with an offer and I turned him down. But he called back with a much better offer and I accepted it. I didn't have any trouble with him. But maybe I'm too easy."

He had had financial problems with Finley before. His teammates recall how several years ago he borrowed more than $100,000 from Finley to purchase a farm. But a few months later, Finley suddenly demanded that the loan be repaid in full. Catfish had no choice but to sell the farm in order to repay the loan. Since then, the farm he had purchased has more than doubled in value. But there again, Hunter's disenchantment with Finley has not detracted from his performance as a pitcher. At his age, he has a chance to join Warren Spahn and Early Wynn as the only 300-game winners of the relatively current era.

"He's so smooth," Lindblad says. "He throws every pitch with the same motion. Nothing jerky jerky that would hurt his arm."

But among today's pitchers, Catfish is somewhat forgotten. With his strikeouts and his no-hitters, Nolan Ryan is more spectacular. With their ailments this season, Tom Seaver and Jim Palmer were more psychoanalyzed. With his iron arm, Mike Marshall is more unusual. But with 25 victories after three consecutive seasons with 21 victories, Hunter has emerged as the primary candidate for the Cy Young award in the American League this year.

"That would be nice," Catfish has joked. "But if I have to go to any banquets because of it, I'll miss some hunting time."

He's a throwback to what many baseball players once were like. Instead of appearing at dinners and filming TV commercials, he returns to the farms and woods of Hertford, N.C., and spends the off-season hunting with his four brothers. He once lost his small right toe in a hunting accident. In other leisure moments, he sits around the gas station in town with the other farmers, as if he had never left.

"If it wasn't for baseball," Catfish says, "I'd probably be a game warden."

He feels both have a good chance to be ready by Saturday.

"We're healthier now than in the last two or three weeks in terms of starters," Osborne said.

He added that 1-back Monte Anthony now is running at full speed after being hampered in the Missouri game with a swollen knee. He also said defensive end Bob Martin's knee should be OK by Saturday.

Split end Bobby Thomas, who didn't get into Missouri game after sitting out the Minnesota contest because of a week's suspension, was ready to play, but Osborne said it was "one of those games where we didn't get down to using second string players."

Thomas lost his punt return job to Jim Burrow and his split end spot to Chuck

Oakland Takes Lead In Series

OAKLAND (UPI) — Joe Ferguson showed up feeling good and full of enthusiasm Tuesday night. He did not leave that way.

"I really felt it would be my day," he said.

It wasn't.

Ferguson, one of two catchers alternated by the Los Angeles Dodgers this season, caught his first World Series game Tuesday night, and tied a record for futility.

He made two errors, becoming the first catcher to do that in a Series game since 1928, and one of them enabled the Oakland A's to score the two runs that eventually beat the Dodgers 3-2.

The A's victory in this third successive game decided by a 3-2 margin—Oakland won the first and the Dodgers the second—of this first-ever all-California Series put them ahead in games, two to one.

"The A's got away with murder," Ferguson said. "They didn't earn any runs (one of them actually was earned, however). We gave them the game. They're definitely a team of opportunities."

Ferguson takes defeat hard.

After Saturday's Series opener, when he struck out to end the game with the tying run on first base, he blamed himself for the loss, saying, "I didn't do my job," even though he prevented an Oakland run with a throw from the outfield that must rank among the all-time Series gems.

He bounced back with a two-run homer on Sunday, and he'll have a chance to bounce back again Wednesday night, although he will be in rightfield—as he was for the first two games—instead of behind the plate. Steve Yeager will be the catcher in the fourth game.

The play that killed the Dodgers Tuesday night occurred in the third inning.

There were Oakland runners on first and third, and two out, when Reggie Jackson hit a little chop in front of the plate.

Ferguson got to the ball, had it in his glove, and dropped it. The first run scored on the play.

"I knocked it out myself when I tried to close my glove," Ferguson said. "It would have been a close play anyway."

The A's got their second run a moment later when Joe Rudi followed with a single.

The Dodgers had moved Ferguson back behind the plate for Tuesday's game so they could get another lefthanded batter, Willie Crawford, into the lineup in right.

Even though Crawford hit a ninth inning home run, the move on balance was a failure.

"Defense is probably the weakest point on our club," said Los Angeles Manager Walter Alston. "Yeager will catch the next game."

Oakland got its third run in the fourth, Dick Green coming home on a single by Bert Campaneris, and Ferguson let the throw from center get by him for his second error.

That made Ferguson the first catcher in more than 40 years to make two errors in a World Series game.

Before the game started, Ferguson was asked about the move from right back to catcher, and he said "I don't care where I play as long as I get my four swings a game," but his four swings didn't accomplish much either—two strikeouts, a walk, and he reached on an error.

Yeager is expected to be the catcher with Ferguson in right again when the Dodgers send first game loser Andy Messersmith against Ken Holtzman on Wednesday night.

Twenty-five game winner Jim "Catfish" Hunter, who saved the Series opener for Oakland with an unusual-for him—relief job, got the victory to raise his three-year World Series record to 4-0.

Hunter had a four-hit shutout and 3-0 lead through seven innings, but was lifted in the eighth after Dave Lopes sent Bill North almost to the wall in center to handle his long drive and Bill Buckner followed two pitches later with a line drive homer to right.

Rollie Fingers, the first game winner, came on and Jim Wynn greeted him with a single but Steve Garvey then lined into the second of three A's double plays.

Crawford led off the ninth by slamming a 1-1 pitch from Fingers into the seats in rightcenter to make the score 3-2.

Ferguson then reached safely when shortstop Campaneris booted his roller for an error. But Ron Cey failed to bunt, and struck out, and Fingers got Bill Russell to ground into a game-ending double play.

The Dodgers' defense actually gave Oakland three extra chances in the A's two-run third.

With one out, North snapped an 0-for-20 slump with a ground single through the hole to centerfield. Cey, at third, made a superb backhand dive to stab Campaneris' grounder and throw him out but North made it all the way to third when Garvey hesitated to return the throw from first.

Jackson, reprimanded before the game by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for his shouting match on Monday with a sportswriter, hit a little chop to the right of the plate.

Ferguson got under it but let it bounce off his glove for an error as North scored and Bando went to second. Rudi followed with a grounder up the middle—it appeared Lopes, the second baseman, could handle it, but didn't.

It rolled under Lopes' glove for a RBI single.

Two Series records, besides the one by Ferguson for errors, were tied. Lopes tied one by stealing second and third base after his leadoff single in the first—the Dodgers didn't get another runner to third until the home run by Buckner—and Green tied another by his involvement in three Oakland double plays.

Kopetzky Rites On Wednesday

Falls City (AP) — Rosary services for Steve Kopetzky are scheduled for Wednesday here. The separate services will be at 11 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

A Funeral Mass will be at 10 a.m. Thursday morning.

Kopetzky was injured last Friday night while making a tackle in a football game between Falls City Sacred Heart and Cook Nemaha Valley. He died in a Lincoln hospital Monday.

Observers said Kopetzky, who won the state's American Legion Oratorical contest the past two years, came over from his strong side safety position and tackled the runner headon. Kopetzky apparently hit his head on the runner's hip and fell unconscious.

Kopetzky did not regain consciousness.

A neurologist who treated Kopetzky, Dr. Douglas Decker, said preliminary results of an autopsy revealed considerable hemorrhaging in the lower brain and at the top of the spinal-cord, where it connects with the brain.

There was also a fracture at the base of the skull. Decker said it was certainly possible for a single blow to cause the damage, but said it is also possible that a congenital weakness may have been involved.

While there were virtually no external signs of the injury, Decker said, there was no question that the blow sustained during the tackle was responsible for the fracture.

No Demotions For Husker Starters

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

There have been no demotions of first-unit players on the Nebraska football team as serious preparations began for Saturday's Big Eight Conference game at Kansas.

Coach Tom Osborne said that three or four players "probably didn't play very well against Missouri," but no changes were made because each of them had turned in good performances in the Huskers' first four games.

The injury situation encouraged Osborne the most with only two players listed as questionable after Tuesday's workout.

They are defensive back Dave Butterfield and defensive tackle Ron Pruitt, but he feels both have a good chance to be ready by Saturday.

"We're healthier now than in the last two or three weeks in terms of starters," Osborne said.

He added that 1-back Monte Anthony now is running at full speed after being hampered in the Missouri game with a swollen knee. He also said defensive end Bob Martin's knee should be OK by Saturday.

Split end Bobby Thomas, who didn't get into Missouri game after sitting out the Minnesota contest because of a week's suspension, was ready to play, but Osborne said it was "one of those games where we didn't get down to using second string players."

Thomas lost his punt return job to Jim Burrow and his split end spot to Chuck

Malito during the suspension. Right now, he has a pulled thigh muscle, but should be available for duty Saturday.

Osborne said quarterback Dave Humm now is 100% recovered from the slight concussion he suffered early in the third quarter against Missouri. He went through the entire Tuesday drill.

Looking ahead to Kansas, Osborne said the Jayhawks are equal to Missouri on defense and probably better offensively "by some margin" than the Tigers.

He noted that Kansas' scoring hasn't been commensurate with the yardage it has been gaining. The Jayhawks are averaging 294 yards a game compared with Nebraska's 297-yard mark. Yet, they've scored just 105 points to the Huskers' 194. Both teams have yielded 56 points.

National Award To OU's Shoate

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Rod Shoate may be the best college football player ever to come out of a trunk.

College recruiters weren't beating a path to Shoate's door when he completed his high school football career at Spiro, Okla. Even Larry Laceywell, University of Oklahoma defensive coach, says it was more of a favor to Spiro coach L. D. Johnson than anything else that he accepted films of Shoate.

He put the films in his car trunk and rode around with them for a couple of weeks on the trail of other prospects. Finally, he looked at them. He liked what he saw and showed them to then-Sooner coach Chuck Fairbanks, who told Laceywell to "go get him."

"I had an All-American linebacker riding around in my trunk for two weeks and didn't know it," recalls Laceywell.

It didn't take long for Shoate to win the label "super." He was named The Associated Press' lineman of the week as a sophomore after making 22 tackles against Iowa State. He won the honor again as a junior in Oklahoma's 27-0 victory over Nebraska.

Last Saturday, the 6-foot-1, 215-pound senior turned in a typical Shoate performance in the Sooners' 16-13 triumph over Texas. That earned him AP's national lineman award for the third year in a row.

"That was the greatest game I've ever seen a college linebacker play," said Sooners coach Barry Switzer. "We've had pro scouts down here who said Shoate could start for their team right after picture day."

Against Texas, Shoate was in on 25 tackles, including two for losses totaling 12 yards. He broke up two Texas passes, caused one fumble and recovered another.

Making his performance even more incredible was the fact that he played the second half with a shoulder injury, his arm limp when it wasn't wrapped around Longhorn ball carriers.

Switzer calls Shoate the best linebacker ever to don a Sooners uniform.

Rod Shoate Wins Honor

Sooner linebacker coach Warren Harper said Shoate is "the best I've ever seen on any level from all the years I've been watching football."

A linebacker-fullback in high school, Shoate is extremely fast for his size, running the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds. He could probably play any position on the team.

But perish the thought, Harper says. "He's such a great linebacker, we've never thought about playing him anywhere else. You only get one like him once in a lifetime."

Jackson Receives Reprimand

OAKLAND (UPI) — Reggie Jackson, Oakland's slugging outfielder, was reprimanded and threatened with suspension by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Tuesday as a result of his run-in with a sports writer.

Kuhn's action came moments before the third game of the World Series between the Oakland A's and Los Angeles Dodgers and was an outgrowth of a stinging denunciation by Jackson directed at Murray Olderman, 52, a sports columnist for a feature syndicate, during the A's off-day workout at Oakland Coliseum Monday.

The reprimand and suspension threat was conveyed to Jackson by one of Kuhn's aides, Joseph Reichler, baseball's Director of Public Relations.

Reichler approached Jackson as the A's cleanup hitter was warming up with fellow outfielder Jesus Alou near the Oakland dugout and told him Kuhn was "very disturbed" over published reports of his threat to keep Olderman out of the A's clubhouse.

"The commissioner doesn't want anything like this ever to happen again," Reichler told Jackson. "If it does, there's going to be a problem, a very serious problem, and I think you know what I mean by that."

Jackson nodded because shortly after Monday's episode, Reichler had told him he would risk suspension if he ever did the same thing again. Reichler made it clear to Jackson on Monday he was speaking for Kuhn.

After he had conveyed the commissioner's message Tuesday, Reichler also was given a message back to Kuhn by Jackson.

"Okay, tell him not to worry, it won't happen again," said the A's outfielder. "Tell him, too, as far as I'm concerned, everything is over."

Schramm Called At Falcons' Trial

Atlanta (AP) — Dallas Cowboys president and general manager Tex Schramm testified Tuesday in the second day of a $1.5-million tax suit involving the National Football League Atlanta Falcons.

Schramm was called on to explain how the value of a football player is determined. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL was expected to testify later Tuesday or Wednesday.

E. Cody Laird Jr., a minority stockholder in the Falcons, filed the suit which went to trial Monday in U.S. District Court before Judge Frank A. Hooper and is expected to last a week or longer.

Laird filed suit when the U.S. Justice Department refused to allow the Falcons to take a $1.5 million tax depreciation allowance on the players purchased when the team joined the NFL in 1966.

The suit contends that the Falcons paid $8.5 million to join the league, and about $7.7 million was used for salaries paid to veteran players selected in an expansion draft.

Laird contends a player's contract can be depreciated over a number of years just as businesses write off the cost of machinery.

The Justice Department says that none of the $8.5 million is deductible because joining the NFL amounted to paying the admission price to an exclusive club.

Schramm, 54, the only witness Monday, was called by Laird's attorney Emmet Bonduant, to appraise the players drafted by the team in 1966.

Schramm made comparisons at virtually every position, showing highly-escalated salaries which ranged as high as $653,000 for one player during the bidding fights between the NFL and American Football League which ended in June, 1966.

"It was the nature of the times," said Schramm. "The league had reached a point where clubs could no longer exist because the competition was so fierce by paying out all that money. But the teams had to stay in competition."

Schramm also brought out the point that when the Falcons came into the league after the 1965 season, highly-touted college stars were receiving more than $300,000 with one running back getting $653,000.

Schramm said a player's ability, size, age, injury record, character, position, level of competition and gate attraction, as many of the points which go into appraising the value of a player.

Oakland To Keep A's?

OAKLAND (UPI) — R. T. Nahas, president of the Oakland Coliseum Commission, insisted Tuesday Charlie Finley and his A's can't break a 20-year lease to play major league baseball in Oakland but an extract from the lease shows otherwise.

Nahas issued a statement Tuesday hours after a local group filed a suit aimed at keeping the A's in Oakland. The group said it wanted to get Finley and the American League on record saying no move of the club was being contemplated.

The idea of the suit being filed now, according to a spokesman, was to get sworn statements which it could use in possible perjury action if the A's later were moved to another city.

Finley refused to comment on the suit and said he stands on a statement he made in Los Angeles Sunday that "we have talked with no one about moving the ball club."

There were published reports last week, on the eve of the first game of the World Series, that the A's were headed for Seattle and that conferences to that effect had been held with the concurrence of American league president Lee McPhail.

Nahas who signed the original Oakland Coliseum lease with Finley in 1968, said in his statement "neither Mr. Finley nor the American League have ever indicated to us by word or deed their desire to move the team."

"In order to assure the fans and press of the stability of the franchise in Oakland," continued Nahas, "we want to repeat that our long-term lease with Mr. Finley started on the first day of April 1968 and continues through the last day of the 1987 baseball season."

However, a part of Paragraph 7 of the lease agreement states that Finley may "not assign, transfer, let or sublet, mortgage or pledge this agreement without the consent of Coliseum Inc., which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld."

Schumacher, one of the state's leading Class A rushers. Wiseman also ranks as one of the Discoverers' leading tacklers with his standout linebacker play

According to Columbus coach Jed Rood, "a person really doesn't want to concede he's made a mistake. I thought it was his fault he quit. He thought it was my fault."

"From this incident, I've changed in my attitude," offers Rood. "I'm being more positive. I'm not always looking for the bad things my players do."

"Football is more than x's and o's," he adds. "Those x's and o's are people. That's what we're working on."

perfectly. Others who will receive Player of the Week cards include

Doug Caulkins, Lincoln East — Twice a 100-yard sprinter last spring in track, his 60-yard touchdown burst was the difference in unbeaten Spartans' 10-7 win over previously unbeaten Lincoln Northeast

Rex Kage, Waverly — Senior linebacker had five unassisted tackles, blocked a punt, recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass for a touchdown in unbeaten team's win over Syracuse. He leads Vikings with 42 unassisted and 37 assisted tackles, 2 blocked punts, 2 fumble recoveries and 2 interceptions

Jim McMurry, North Platte St. Pat's — Senior I-back, only 5'8" and 150 pounds, rushed for 201 yards on 15 carries and scored a 65-yard kickoff return touchdown in team's fifth win over Imperial. He's converted quarterback

Derrie Nelson, Fairmont — His 12 and 29 yard touchdown scampers boosted top rated Class D team to important 20-6 victory over Polk

Willy Long, Arthur — Junior half back scored five touchdowns and threw for another in team's sixth straight win, a 42-0 decision over Tryon. He scored on runs of 20, 22 and 72 yards, caught an 18-yard touchdown pass, intercepted a pass for a 14-yard TD and threw a 53-yard scoring pass

Jerry Kobza, Lincoln Plus X — His 72-yard pass interception touchdown and 15-yard scoring reception keyed Thunderbolts to 21-14 win over fellow Class B-rated Omaha Holy Name

Tim Schindler, Kimball — Senior middle guard was credited with 11 unassisted tackles and six assists and was instrumental in "stacking up" a fourth down situation inside team's one-yard line late in the fourth quarter as Longhorns ambushed previously unbeaten Gordon, 7-0

Gary Trautman, Sutton — Despite playing with a broken toe, he rushed for 238 yards on 36 carries, scored a pair of touchdowns, was in on seven tackles and intercepted a pass in team's win over Sandy Creek

Duane Fischer, Medicine Valley — Senior quarterback hit 14 of 26 passes for 231 yards and touchdowns covering 8, 29 and 78 yards in unbeaten team's 32-22 win over Benkelman

Mark Weber, Adams — Senior scored all of unbeaten eight-man team's points in 32-20 win over rated Barneston. He rushed for 121 yards and had 145 yards on kick returns. Scoring efforts included 14 and 54 yard runs, pass catches of 10 and 12 yards, a 76-yard kickoff return and a PAT grab

Ted Elm, North Platte — Senior running back threw a 77-yard touchdown pass and scored himself on runs of 7 and 56 yards as Bulldogs stayed unbeaten in the West Big 10 with 36-15 win over Alliance

Larry Minzel, Malcolm — Senior quarterback scored three touchdowns on runs of 17 and 56 yards and a 56-yard pass and passed for three more TD's on plays covering 5, 10 and 63 yards in 52-32 win over Waterloo. He also ran for three 2 point conversions and ran for another PAT

Kim Schoenholz, Bruning — Established a school rushing record despite rebuilding team's 14-12 loss to Diller

A's 'Ignoring' Lack Of DH

Oakland (AP) — Manager Alvin Dark says the rule prohibiting use of designated hitters in the World Series doesn't hurt his Oakland A's against the Los Angeles Dodgers

In the American League, batting orders include a player hitting in place of the pitcher. The National League still requires pitchers to take their turns at the plate

World Series play follows the traditional approach of the National League

"Not being able to use a designated hitter does not hurt our ball club this year," Dark said Wednesday. "I'd put the hitting of our Ken Holtzman and Jim Hunter against the pitchers hitting for the other team."

In the first World Series game at Los Angeles, Holtzman hit a double, went to third on a wild pitch and came home on a suicide squeeze as the A's won 3-2. Holtzman's initial trip to the plate Saturday was the first time an Oakland pitcher had batted this season

Dark implied that the Dodgers might have stronger men in a designated hitter's spot if the rule were in effect

"This year we haven't had a designated hitter like Deron Johnson was last year," he commented

In 1973, Johnson knocked in 81 runs despite a September slump. Against the New York Mets in the World Series—not appearing as a designated hitter—he collected three hits in 10 plate appearances

This year, the A's put Johnson on waivers and he was claimed by Milwaukee which paid $20,000 plus a minor league player

Meanwhile, two other key Chicago players, forward Bob Love and guard Norm Van Lier, remained absent from the club's training camp.

The Utah Stars of the ABA put Roy Ebron on waivers reducing their roster to the required 11 players.

The Boston Celtics played Byron Jones and M. L. Carr on waivers.

The Houston Rockets cut 6-6 forward Lee Colburn. Jeff Mullins, veteran guard for the Golden State Warriors of the NBA, was sidelined for three weeks with a broken hand.

The Milwaukee Bucks announced they will retire uniform No. 1 worn by Oscar Robertson, who ended his playing career last month after 14 NBA seasons.

Robertson will be a commentator on telecasts of NBA games this season.

Clemson University announced the Atlantic Coast Conference has disciplined its basketball coach, Tates Locke, for providing a private airplane trip to the campus for the father of a player being recruited a year ago.

Clemson President Robert C. Edwards said that ACC Commissioner Bob James has restricted Locke's recruiting work to the campus until Aug. 1975.

Edwards said the violation of ACC and NCAA regulations occurred when the father of Phil Ford Jr. was flown to the campus. The son, however, entered the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill this fall.

FOOTBALL

The Montreal Alouettes of the CFL announced the formal appointment of Bob Greary as general manager.

Rookie running-back Bo Matthews, the San Diego Chargers' No. 1 draft choice from Colorado, may start Sunday against the Denver Broncos.

First-stringer Cid Edwards suffered a pulled hamstring in last Sunday's 14-10 Charger loss to the Oakland Raiders and coach Tommy Prothro said he might put Matthews in the starting lineup.

Los Angeles Rams' head coach Chuck Knox said he will replace veteran quarterback John Hadl with James Harris in next Sunday's game against San Francisco.

The Chicago Fire of the WFL have signed quarterback Bubba Wyche of the Detroit Wheels, whose franchise recently folded.

The WFL temporarily scrapped plans for a draft of players on the rosters of the Wheels and the Jacksonville Sharks.

Donnell Hunter, 17, a Roswell Goddard High School died at the Eastern New Mexico Center after injuring his neck and spine in a football game.

The Supreme Court let stand a lower court ruling that professional football teams can force season ticket holders to also buy tickets to exhibition games.

BASEBALL

Hank Aaron said that he wants to remain in baseball but not as a "figure head."

He also said he has not been in contact with the Milwaukee Brewers, a team he has been rumored joining as a designated hitter and later as general manager.

Orlando Cepeda, recently released by the Kansas City Royals will reportedly play in the Japanese League in the 1975 and 1976 seasons.

The reports also indicated that Cepeda has signed a $250,000 contract to play with one of the Japanese teams during the two years.

Charlie Feeney of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette was named National President of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Richard Dozer of the Chicago Tribune was named vice president and Jack Lang of the Long Island Press was reelected secretary-treasurer.

OTHER SPORTS

James "Doc" Counsilman, head swimming coach at Indiana University, was named head coach of the 1976 U.S. men's Olympic swimming team by the U.S. Olympic Swimming committee.

George Haines, UCLA coach and Don Gambrell, of Alabama were named assistants to Counsilman.

Jimmy Ellis, former WBA heavyweight champion from Louisville Ky., will meet Britain's Joe Bugner at Wembley Pool in London Nov. 12.

Defending national champion St. Louis University has regained the No. 1 spot among the nation's college soccer teams.

Howard University is ranked second while Southern Illinois-Edwardsville is third.

The South African government will permit racially mixed sport for the first time early next year when a local white, black, Indian and colored (mulatto) teams contest a football trophy.

The soccer contest will be played off among sides composed of one race, not with individual teams racially mixed. Interracial contact was only allowed in international events previously.

Duane Carter, Jr. already has clinched the USAC sprint car title this season but George Snider, Tom Bigelow and Bruce Walkup are about even for the second place spot.

Earl Anthony won the Professional Bowlers Association AMF Regional Champions classic in Newark, Ohio and a berth in the Firestone Tournament of Champions at Akron.

Eight-year-old Busch Stadium, the home of three professional sports teams in St. Louis, has termites in the offices. The area under the stands behind home plate has been infested and the bugs might have even worked their way through the ground to the AstroTurf.

LINE Netters Win Crown

Lincoln Northeast doubles teams scored victories in the City Public Reserve Tennis Championships and boosted the Pockets to a team title Tuesday afternoon at Woods Park.

Mark Lionberger and Gary Jamison teamed up to win the No. 1 doubles title, while Mark Brennan and Geoff Crooks paired to win the No. 2 doubles title.

Ross Samson of East won the No. 1 Singles while Ken Simon of Southeast won the No. 2 Singles crown.

Nebraska Tops Concordia, 4-1

The University of Nebraska field hockey team bested Concordia 4-1 in a game played Tuesday in Lincoln.

Scoring for the Huskers were: Mary Clair Frassen, Denise Massengale, Julie Dowling and Susan Hansen, as they boosted the UNL team's record to 4-0.

Southeast Girls Fall To Links

Pam Koontz scored nine points to lead the Lincoln High girl's volleyball team to a 15-9, 15-11 win over Lincoln Southeast at Lincoln High Tuesday night.

The Links raised their varsity record to 7-2, while the reserves also scored a victory and boosted its record to 8-1.

'Modest' Cook Leading Adams' Successes

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

If there's one thing Adams football coach Ken Cook is not, it's boastful.

Cook, in his sixth season at Adams, has guided his teams to 45 wins, 5 losses and 1 tie. Quick computation reveals that's almost 90 per cent success.

Yet Cook refuses to take credit.

"Anyone in the same position might have the same record, probably even better," Cook maintains. "When you have the athletes, it's easy to coach."

"Heck," he adds, "I blew about three of those losses myself."

If that indeed is true, it doesn't happen very often. Cook's year-by-year record includes marks of 7-1, 7-1, 6-2-1, 10-0, 9-1 and 6-0 so far this season for the No. 2 eight-man rating in the Sunday Journal and Star.

The Hornets solidified their ratings status behind season-long leader East Butler last weekend

Mark Weber, a three-year starting halfback, keyed the victory. In fact, he virtually put on a one-man show.

Evert Leading Women Netters

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chris Evert, who took the week off from competition on the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association Women's Professional Tennis Tour, continues to lead the moneywinning list.

Miss Evert, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., missed the Virginia Slims of Phoenix event last week but has amassed $141,985 while playing in 15 tournaments, more than $30,000 ahead of her nearest competitor, Billie Jean King.

Mrs. King, San Mateo, Calif., has earned $110,200 from 11 tourneys.

Rosemary Casals, San Francisco, is far back in third, at $50,250, while Virginia Wade of Great Britain, winner in Phoenix, vaulted from sixth to fourth, less than $1,500 behind Miss Casals.

Kerry Melville, Australia, is fifth, followed by countrywoman Evonne Goolagong; Betty Stove, The Netherlands, and Françoise Durr, France, who teamed to win the doubles in Phoenix; Julie Heldman, Houston; and Olga Morozova, USSR.

Slapping Players Creates Concern

Miami (AP) — A high school football coach who was shown shoving and slapping his players in a nationally televised program said Tuesday he expects to be criticized but his actions were for the good of the team.

"When I slap a kid, it's with an open hand, not with a fist," said Chris Vagotis, coach of the Miami Killian High football squad. "It's for motivation."

The film clip, televised Monday night on the ABC program "Danger in Sports: Paying the Price," showed Vagotis pushing his players so hard that one fell to the ground.

As the film was broadcast, narrator Jules Bergman asked, "What kind of man is your neighborhood high school coach?"

Chris Vagotis
'For Motivation'

"I know I didn't look good on that program," said Vagotis, a former offensive guard at the University of Alabama. "And I expect that I'll be receiving a lot of feedback because of the way I was shown. But that's me."

Carey McDonald, executive director of the National High School Athletic Coaches Association, said the slapping incident is "not typical of the average high school coach."

"The image shown of Chris slapping kids down wasn't good," said McDonald of Orlando. "That kind of image will hurt everybody. . . . We have enough problems maintaining respect in the communities without this."

McDonald criticized ABC for including the film clip in the program, which dealt primarily with high school football injuries.

"They should have showed a more representative coach . . . showing Chris swinging at, and beating at, his players was unnecessary as far as the point of the program."

Meanwhile, Vagotis, whose team is 3-0 this season, says he expects to hear from school officials about his teaching techniques during practice.

"If the administration asked me to change, I probably would for a little while, but sooner or later I'd go back to being myself," said Vagotis.

"I'm a tough guy to work for, but whoever plays for me is gonna learn something."

Duck Opener Said Quiet

Duck hunting in eastern Nebraska opened rather quietly in most areas, but hunters in some areas seemed to find enough birds to keep them busy.

To most hunters, it was rather apparent that the major flight of ducks had not yet reached Nebraska. Only birds in most areas were a few local ducks, some blue-winged teal, and some early-migrating wigeon and gadwall. According to reports of Game and Parks Commission conservation officers in the field, outdoor activity across Nebraska includes:

PANHANDLE
Some teal, mallards, and gadwall are on hand in the North Platte Valley, but there has been little hunting pressure. About 700 geese are on the Garden County Refuge. In Sheridan County, hunters have been having some success in shooting teal, wigeon, and mallards along Box Butte Creek. Smith Lake has some wigeon, gadwall, and redheads, but hunting success has been only fair. Ponds in Box Butte County offer teal, mallards, and gadwall, but hunting pressure has been light, especially during the week.

SOUTHEAST
Fishermen at West Kimball Reservoir are taking a few walleye, averaging 14 inches, and some rainbow trout to 3 pounds, both on minnows. Worms have been producing bluegill. Lake McCaughy has been giving up a few walleye to 3 pounds on trolled artificials, while 2-pound catfish have been taking shrimp and shad gizzards in the Gate 13 and Omaha Beach areas.

SOUTHWEST
Duck hunters had fair success Saturday on Harlan County Reservoir, taking mostly green-winged teal. Teal, wigeon, and gadwall are moving into the Johnson Lake area. Geese were moving through the Lexington vicinity over the weekend, and some 200 small Canadas are in the Harlan County area.

SAND HILLS
Duck hunters had fair success in Rock County, considering the dry conditions. The birds on hand are mostly teal, wigeon, and gadwall, and are largely local birds. No migration of ducks has yet reached the area.

NORTHEAST
Hunters on Lewis and Clark Lake bagged occasional limits of ducks over the weekend. The take was mostly small ducks, including gadwall, wigeon, teal, wood ducks, pintails, skulp, and ringnecks. Some 3,500 ducks are on the lake, along with about 100 blue, snow, and small Canada geese.

SOUTHWEST
Fishermen on the Wiegand Area of Lewis and Clark were doing well, taking walleye and sauger, averaging 3 pounds, on minnows. The Gavins Point Dam Tailwaters offered a few walleye and sauger, and snappers were taking paddlefish up to 25 pounds.

Duck hunters had good success on gadwall, wigeon and teal in Gage County. Ducks were also on hand in Douglas County. Elsewhere, birds were scarce. Dreary weather made for tight fishing and squirrel hunting activity.

Katzer Garners Third In Meet

Winterset, Ia. — Ken Katzer, a science instructor at Lincoln Northeast High School, finished third in the Iowa AAU Marathon Championships held here Sunday.

Katzer ran the 26 mile race in 2 hours and 42 minutes to finish behind winner Martin Smith of Cedar Rapids, Ia., who ran the race in 2 hours and 39 minutes. Dennis Clatton of Grand Rapids, Mich., was second with a time of 2 hours, 40 minutes and 40 seconds.

A total of 91 runners entered the annual event with 84 managing to finish the 26 miles which started at Indianola, Iowa, and finished in Winterset.

Bowmen Club Slates Classes

Lincoln's Prairie Bowmen Club has initiated an adult class for persons interested in archery shooting, according to club president Charles Beardslee.

The classes will be held at 7 p.m. at 1421 O St. on Monday nights. Junior Olympic Archery Development classes for youngsters are also being held at the same site on Wednesday evenings.

Forecast For Wednesday

"Heaven sends down its good or evil symbols — and wise men act accordingly." — Kung-tse (Confucius), 551-478 B.C.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you dig deep, you strike pay dirt! If you are quickly discouraged, you find dirt, period. The occult, the hidden, the glamor surrounding a mystery — these prove especially intriguing. You meet someone at social affair — your intellectual curiosity soars. You will be stimulated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't skip essentials. The shortcut now could lead to long range difficulties. It would be best to specify, to read between the lines and to be frank, direct. A legal barrier is removed only if you face issues as they exist. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio could be involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Communicate with co-workers, others who share common interests, goals. There are changes due — and employment picture could be affected. Key is to make meanings, needs, objectives crystal-clear. Another Gemini — and a Virgo — could be directly involved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Accent is on creativity, change, intensified relationships. Nothing is halfway — the house is remodeled or residence is changed. A purchase is made and budget is stretched. Furthermore, you could fall madly in love!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Home and domestic conditions dominate. Cancer person could be impetuous. Maintain balance — strive for harmony. Be moderate — avoid excess in eating, drinking, making promises. Means take conservative course!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Accent is on special message which causes you to check accounts, totals, costs, projected cash flow. Relative may be involved. Key is to handle responsibility — in person. This is not the time to delegate authority, duties.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Study Virgo message for valid hint. Money situation does figure prominently. The end of a situation is indicated — don't throw money after a losing proposition. Know when to call a halt. That's not the same as being a quitter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Reflect on motives, goals, desires. Cycle is such that you get what you ask for — be sure it's good for you. Aries, Libra and Virgo persons may be in picture. Finish rather than initiate project. Find ways of reaching more people with message product.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Slower pace should be no reason for discouragement. Some who really have your best interests at heart want to check various factors including costs.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

If your child has trouble keeping up his grades in school this year, there may be a physical reason according to the Nebraska Medical Association.

Does the child quirt, strain, rub his eyes or complain that they hurt, water or itch? Does he hold his book very close to his face when he reads? He may have defective vision. He may not be able to read the teacher's notes on the blackboard.

Does he seem to miss a point made in a movie, or television or the spoken word? He may have defective hearing. It might even be as simple as impacted wax in his ears, which can be removed by your physician in a simple office procedure.

There is a possibility that poor nutrition may be holding him back, limiting his enthusiasms, interests and capabilities.

Foreign Banks Offer Competition To California Firms

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The neatly painted sign in the window of the Bank of California notes the firm was chartered more than a century ago, in 1864. But there's a new bank in town, just across the street, with a placard declaring: "Lloyds Bank, a new name for us... but it's almost three centuries old."

Lloyds is the latest wholly owned foreign banking firm to enter the highly competitive California market, offering a full range of services such as no-bounce checking accounts.

Lloyds joins a dozen other firms with such exotic names as Hong Kong Bank, Mitsubishi Bank of Tokyo, French Bank of California and Chartered Bank of London.

With parent headquarters in faraway capitals like Paris, London and Tokyo, the firms have assets of $4.3 billion and offer direct competition to California banks.

The proliferation of competition from abroad triggered a backlash in the California Legislature last year, mainly from the smaller independent banks.

An informal moratorium on new foreign banks and branches was imposed while the lawmakers considered, and ultimately defeated in committee, legislation to severely restrict future expansion in the state. Since then, two new banks have entered the state and the number of foreign-owned retail banking outlets has more than doubled, to more than 200.

The major reason for the increase was Lloyds' purchase of California's eighth largest bank, First Western, with assets of $1.4 billion and 94 branches throughout California.

The 1973 legislation was prompted by the small banks' contentions that the foreign-held banks had a special advantage over domestic ones.

In many cases, the foreign banks were able to offer lower-cost checking accounts, and consumer and auto loans, said the report submitted by Banking Supt. Donald E. Pearson.

But Pearson concluded: "There is no evidence that such banks are engaging in competition in an illegal or unfair manner."

Pearson conducted a survey in which he found that many California bankers felt the competition was healthy for the state's economy, which ranks seventh among nations of the world, behind the United States, the Soviet Union, Japan, West Germany, France and the United Kingdom.

Further, Pearson sought to dispel any notion that foreign banks were trying to control California's money market in behalf of their parent firms or home governments.

"When compared to total domestic deposits of $70 billion, the foregoing (outline of foreign bank assets) does not support fears that foreign countries are about to acquire manipulative power over California's economy," he said.

Only in New York State and California do foreign banks do any substantial commercial business, said a spokesman for the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Most of the activities in New York are related in international trade rather than the growing retail banking business offered to the average customer in California, said economist Bob Johnston.

One argument of the small, independent bankers in pushing for the legislation in 1973 was that the foreign-owned banks had the vast wealth of commercial combines, such as Mitsubishi of Japan behind them.

They also contended that Japanese banks, for instance, were in a position to offer lower-interest auto loans to those who purchase a Datsun rather than an American-made auto.

Pearson's report said he found no such evidence.

Landowners Claim
Condemnation Illegal

By United Press International
The Plattsmouth Airport Authority — declared invalid in 1971 and subsequently reformed — is once again before the State Supreme Court.
On appeal from the Cass County district court is a suit brought by John J. Stones, Larry D. Stones and Lorene Stones, contending airport authority actions are illegal.
Specifically being challenged is the acquisition of 201 acres of land.
The parties filing suit contend the airport authority failed to acknowledge and protect their due process rights and also contend too much land was taken.
Due Process Rights
On the issue of whether due process rights were protected in the condemnation proceedings, attorneys told the high court.
"The fact that these plaintiffs had no notice or opportunity for hearing relative to the location of an airport upon their lands stands uncontradicted. They have been denied their constitutional rights of due process."
As to the amount of land involved, during the lower court trial, which wound up in favor of the airport authority, authority officials said they were planning for the future in acquiring 201 acres.
But federal standards require only 83 acres of land for the 3,000 foot runway the authority has constructed, the landowners' attorneys told the court.
Even if the runway was doubled in length, only 121 acres would be required under federal standards, the attorneys added.
Condemnation Excessive
"It can only be concluded from the evidence that an excess of land was condemned," the attorneys said.
The reason so much land was taken, the attorneys said, became obvious by means of announcements made by the authority itself, the attorneys said.
The airport authority announced publicly, the court was told, it expected rental income of $6,500 from 130 acres of land at $50 per acre.
"And when one realizes that $800 per acre land cost the authority only $240 by virtue of state and federal funding, rental of $240 per acre land at $50 per acre per year without taxation or expense is a lucrative business," the court was told.
Inviting, But Illegal
The attorneys said they had to admit the plan was "a very inviting method to perpetuate and expand a government giveaway program," but it was illegal.
"The exercise of the power of eminent domain, when the purported public use is future speculative expansion or a cloak for an ulterior use of financing the project, must be enjoined as illegal condemnation and inverse taxation," the attorneys said.

Hastings Council Supports
Change To City Manager

The formal proposal approved by the Council Monday night places it on record as supporting the city manager plan and asks that petitions favoring the Hastings (AP) — A proposal to change Hastings' city government from the mayor-council form to a city manager-council plan has received unanimous support from the Hastings City Council.
Informal discussion between Mayor D. W. Malouf and the eight councilmen had been under way for several weeks.
Estate Is Willed To Plattsmouth's Volunteer Squad
Plattsmouth (AP) — The Plattsmouth Volunteer Fire Dept. and Rescue Squad will receive between $50,000 and $75,000 according to a will to be filed in Cass County Court Tuesday.
The late Mrs. Clara Thompson, who died Oct. 6, left no explanation why her estate was left to the department. The will says simply that her estate should go toward the purchase and maintenance of equipment.
A longtime friend, Mrs. Agnes Taylor of Plattsmouth, said Mrs. Thompson made the bequest "because she knew they were nonprofit organizations and felt the money would be used wisely and the whole town would benefit from it."
No other beneficiaries were named in the will. Mrs. Thompson and her late husband were childless and the nearest relatives were cousins.
Plymouth Man Is Satisfactory After Explosion
Plymouth (AP) — Donald Brandt, 25, was reported in satisfactory condition in a Beatrice hospital Monday with burns he suffered Sunday morning in the explosion of a gas furnace at his father's home four miles northeast of Plymouth.
A hospital spokesman said Brandt suffered first- and second-degree burns on his hands and minor burns on his face, head, ankles and heels.
Edwin Brandt said his son went to the basement to check the furnace after smelling gas. The furnace exploded when the younger Brandt turned on an electric light, the father said.
The blast knocked the younger Brandt through a door into a yard outside the 2½-story frame house. The house caught fire and was destroyed.

Kibbutz Must Pay

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli court ruled that a woman who divorces her husband on a kibbutz collective farm and moves away is entitled to alimony paid collectively by the kibbutz. Members of a kibbutz usually have very little money of their own. Everything is owned and paid for communally.

Big Labor 'Contrary To Nebraskans' Interests' — Mrs. Smith

Ainsworth (UPI) — Mrs. Haven Smith of Chappell said Tuesday if organized labor succeeds in electing a "veto proof" Congress in November, right to work laws would be in jeopardy and the Occupational Safety and Health Act would be strengthened.
"If big labor elects a veto-proof Congress," the 3rd District Republican congressional candidate said, "there will be a push by organized labor to enact a number of laws contrary to the best interests of the people in Nebraska."
One of the first attacks, Mrs. Smith said, would be on section 14B of the Taft Hartley Act which allows a state to enact right to work laws and prohibits closed shops.
In addition, Mrs. Smith said, a labor-controlled Congress would prohibit reform of the Occupational Safety and Health Act which she said has "plagued many small business in the third district."

Building, Weather Delay Flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sporadic slowdowns by dissident air traffic controllers, runway construction problems and weather conditions have resulted in massive delays in flights to several major cities in recent weeks, the Federal Aviation Administration said Tuesday.

Most delays are caused by airport construction and weather conditions, the FAA said. However, numerous airline passengers have reported pilots told them the delay in their flight was caused by a slowdown of air controllers that resulted from a labor dispute between the FAA and its controllers.

The FAA previously has stated it had no evidence of any slowdown but a spokesman said Tuesday that agency now believes there have been some slowdowns.

"We have found no concerted slowdown by controllers," said FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman. "There have been isolated cases, very isolated cases, but nothing of any dimensions whatsoever."

"We're keeping a very close tab on it," he said.

Some of the worst delays are occurring at Chicago's O'Hare International. That airport currently is undergoing major runway construction, however, and no one is quite sure how much of the delays are caused by that construction.

Chicago airport authorities said more than one third of all flights Saturday and nearly half of all flights Sunday were delayed, some for more than two hours.

O'Hare normally has four runways in use but construction has cut the number of available runways to two. A crosswind this past weekend resulted in only one runway in use at times.

Delays also have been reported in recent weeks at Washington's National Airport, New York's LaGuardia, Pittsburgh, Miami and several other cities.

The union representing the controllers has denied there is any union-wide slowdown but John Leyden, head of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, has said the union cannot control individual actions. He also said controllers are not working with the same enthusiasm they once had.

The FAA and the controllers currently are in the midst of labor negotiations. One of the major issues in the talks is the cutback last month by airlines in the number of free flights given controllers.

Previously, controllers were allowed eight free flights per year to familiarize them with the problems pilots face. The controllers rode in the jump seat in the cockpit.

The airlines, however, acting through the Air Transport Association, cut back on those flights last month, contending some controllers were abusing the program.

Other sources said some controllers apparently were using the flights for vacations.

Although ATA originally shut down the free flights program completely, it later agreed to allow controllers four free flights a year.

agreement in tempo prevented the players from presenting a polished, finished product, a product which can and usually does captivate and charm the audience.

The orchestra, in contrast to their accompaniment problems, performed the Berlioz Overture and the Hanson "Romantic" Symphony in fine fashion. There was noticeable improvement of tone quality and ensemble precision in many sections. The string section gave such notice in the Overture and the brass section got some outstanding playing from the entire horn section in general and specifically from 1st chair trumpet, Steve Erickson and 1st chair horn, David Kappy.

Some mention should be made of Hanson's Symphony. It is by no means a great work, but it sure is fun to listen to. Hanson employs lush, full chords that remind the listener of the popular music of the forties and/or of a rich orchestration to a Biblical movie of the same era.

A native of Nebraska, Hanson has made notable contributions to the music of this country. It would be a pleasure to hear more of his works performed.

Gifted Korean Violinist Star At Lincoln Symphony

RICHARD GRACE

The Lincoln Symphony, under the direction of Leo Kopp, opened its 49th season in O'Donnell Auditorium on the Nebraska Wesleyan campus Tuesday night.

Featuring the young violinist, Yong Uck Kim, as guest artist, the orchestra performed the Concerto in E Minor by Mendelssohn and the Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso for Violin and Orchestra by Saint-Saens.

The Berlioz Overture to "Beatrice and Benedict" and Howard Hanson's Symphony No. 2 opened and concluded the program.

Kim's performance with the orchestra was excellent. The once child prodigy, who was born in Korea and musically trained in both Korea and the U.S., has already established his talents as one of the world's most gifted in both this country and in Europe.

His superb technique and bright timbre so suitable for these particular pieces was always in evidence. But the performance was not without flaws. There appeared to be a disparity in tempi between the soloist, conductor and orchestra that was especially audible in the brilliant 3rd movement of Mendelssohn and the cadential sections of the Saint-Saens. This disagreement in tempo prevented the players from presenting a polished, finished product, a product which can and usually does captivate and charm the audience.

Graham Library Set

Wheaton, Ill. (UPI) — Wheaton College, where evangelist Billy Graham was educated and his wife, will be the home of the Billy Graham Library and Archives, college officials announced.

Lahnners' opponent, Jack Lindner, charged Tuesday that Lahnners was in violation of the federal law which limits the political activity of state and local employees.

At a press conference called by Lindner, the Democratic candidate said that the federal law, which was formerly referred to as the Hatch Act, prohibits state and local employees from being candidates in a partisan race or actively working in any partisan campaign.

Lindner further charged that Lahnners' alleged violation of federal law will have an impact on taxpayers because of the severe penalties involved.

He said the state and county stand to forfeit federal funds equal to twice the annual salary of Lahnners which would amount to about $49,000.

Lahnners said if he were found to be in violation of the Hatch Act, the county would be given time for him to resign before any further action would be taken.

He said no funds would be jeopardized unless an employee found to be in violation of the law continues in his job after actually being declared in violation.

Lindner further charged that Lahnners violated the law by soliciting funds and endorsements for County Atty. Paul Douglas, who is a candidate for attorney general.

Lahnners said, in his opinion, this did not violate any federal law.

"If this were anything but a political charge," Lahnners said, he would have thought Lindner "would have brought it up far before now, as I filed for office in March."

House OKs $200 Million Bill For Amtrak

Washington (UPI) — The House Tuesday passed and sent to President Ford a bill authorizing $200 million for Amtrak, the national passenger train corporation, for the current fiscal year.

The bill makes few basic changes in the present Amtrak law other than requiring that large state population centers with no passenger train service be given priority in assigning new experimental services.

Next year's experimental service must go to Boise, Idaho, according to an order in the report which accompanies the bill. Under present law, one new experimental route must be initiated each year.

The legislation, which passed 299 to 35, is more significant for what it does not do. The House-Senate Conference Committee which drew up the compromise omitted a section which would have allowed Amtrak's board of directors to selectively pay salaries higher than the current $60,000-per-year maximum.

The salary limitation has crimped behind-the-scenes efforts to find a replacement for Amtrak President Roger Lewis.

The conference committee also abandoned a Senate amendment which would have given Amtrak nearly total independence from the Transportation Department in ordering new equipment. A compromise section requires the transportation secretary to establish guidelines for such purchases, but allows him to interpret whether Amtrak has met those guidelines.

The legislation requires that priority be given to plans to upgrade and speed up train service in the northeast corridor between Boston and Washington.

Money also is provided to help save old railroad stations of historical and architectural significance.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Be it enacted by the people of the State of Nebraska,

Section 1. That at the general election in November, 1974, there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article III, section 10, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 10. Beginning with the year 1975, regular sessions of the Legislature shall be held annually, commencing at 10 a.m. on the first Monday in January of each year. The duration of regular sessions held shall not exceed ninety legislative days in odd-numbered years unless extended by a vote of four-fifths of all members elected to the Legislature, and shall not exceed sixty legislative days in even-numbered years unless extended by a vote of four-fifths of all members elected to the Legislature. Bills and resolutions under consideration by the Legislature upon adjournment of a regular session held in an odd-numbered year may be considered at the next regular session, as if there had been no such adjournment. The Lieutenant Governor shall preside, but shall vote only when the Legislature is equally divided. A majority of the members elected to the Legislature shall constitute a quorum; the Legislature shall determine the rules of its proceedings and be the judge of the election, returns, and qualifications of its members, shall choose its own officers, including a Speaker to preside when the Lieutenant Governor shall be absent, incapacitated, or shall act as Governor. No member shall be expelled except by a vote of two-thirds of all members elected to the Legislature, and no member shall be twice expelled for the same offense. The Legislature may punish by imprisonment any person not a member thereof who shall be guilty of disrespect to the Legislature by disorderly or contemptuous behavior in its presence, but no such imprisonment shall extend beyond twenty-four hours at one time, unless the person shall persist in such disorderly or contemptuous behavior."

PROPOSED BY THE 1974 LEGISLATURE
Proposed Amendment No. 1

A vote FOR this proposal would enlarge the present eight-member elected Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska by adding three University of Nebraska students as nonvoting members, who would be the student body presidents of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and the University of Nebraska Medical Center. Their term of office would be for their period of service as student body presidents.

A vote AGAINST this proposal would retain the present Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska consisting of eight elected members.

the student body president of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, the student body president of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and the student body president of the University of Nebraska Medical Center. The terms of office of elected members shall be for six years each. The terms of office of student members shall be for the period of service as student body president. Their duties and powers shall be prescribed by law; and they shall receive no compensation, but may be reimbursed their actual expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties.

The Legislature shall divide the state, along county lines, into as many compact regent districts, as there are regents provided by the Legislature, of approximately equal population, which shall be numbered consecutively.

The Legislature shall redistrict the state after each federal decennial census. Such districts shall not be changed except upon the concurrence of a majority of the members of the Legislature. In any such redistricting, county lines shall be followed whenever practicable, but other established lines may be followed at the discretion of the Legislature. Whenever the state is so redistricted the members elected prior to the redistricting shall continue in office, and the law providing for such redistricting shall where necessary specify the newly established district which they shall represent for the balance of their term."

Section 1. That at the general election in November, 1974, there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article IV, section 15, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 15. Every bill passed by the Legislature, before it becomes a law, shall be presented to the Governor. If he approves he shall sign it, and thereupon it shall become a law, but if he does not approve or reduces any item or items of appropriations, he shall return it with his objections to the Legislature, which shall enter the objections at large upon its journal, and proceed to reconsider the bill. If then three-fifths of the members elected agree to pass the same it shall become a law, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor. In all such cases the vote shall be determined by yeas and nays, to be entered upon the journal. Any bill which shall not be returned by the Governor within five days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it; unless the Legislature by their adjournment prevent its return in which case it shall be filed with his objections in the office of the Secretary of State within five days after such adjournment, or become a law. The Governor may disapprove or reduce any item or items of appropriation contained in bills passed by the Legislature, and the item or items so disapproved shall be stricken therefrom, and the items reduced shall remain as reduced unless repassed in the manner herein prescribed in cases of disapproval of bills."

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2

A vote FOR this proposal would change the date and time when the Legislature convenes annually in regular session from noon on the first Tuesday in January to 10:00 A.M. on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January.

A vote AGAINST this proposal would retain the present provision for the Legislature convening in regular session annually at noon on the first Tuesday in January.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3

A vote FOR this proposal would remove language requiring every order, resolution or vote of the Legislature be presented to the Governor for his approval or disapproval, but would retain the provision that every bill passed by the Legislature be presented to the Governor for his approval or disapproval every

Lahnners Says He'd Leave If He Were Violating Law

Chief Deputy Lancaster County Atty. Ron Lahnners said Tuesday he would not continue in his present position while running for county attorney if he felt he was in violation of the law.

Lahnners' opponent, Jack Lindner, charged Tuesday that Lahnners was in violation of the federal law which limits the political activity of state and local employees.

At a press conference called by Lindner, the Democratic candidate said that the federal law, which was formerly referred to as the Hatch Act, prohibits state and local employees from being candidates in a partisan race or actively working in any partisan campaign.

Fall Here, But So Is Winter Air

Fall has officially been here for nearly a month, but temperatures early Tuesday morning across Nebraska brought the approach of winter to mind.

The temperature dipped to 16 degrees early Tuesday morning in North Platte, setting a new record for the date there.

Early morning temperatures in Alliance and Burwell dipped to a chilly 20 and at Scottsbluff the low was a brisk 23 degrees.

Elsewhere, temperatures generally fell into the mid to upper 20s. The low in Valentine was 24; Grand Island and Norfolk both recorded lows of 25; Omaha, Imperial and McCook had lows of 26. In Lincoln and Chadron, the lows dipped to 29.

Law Fies Lien In Construction Of Mall In G.I.

Grand Island (AP) — A mechanic's lien for $337,391 has been filed against the Grand Island Mall by Law Co. of Wichita, Kan., contractors for the project.

Law vice president and general counsel, Carl Bell Jr., said the lien was filed because of non-payment of part of the construction cost.

The lien was filed against the Grand Island Mall, Inc., and the S&H Shopping Center, Inc., of Hackensack, N.J.

Work began in June of 1972 and in September the property was sold to John and Mary English of Lincoln for $200,000.

Fire In Omaha Hits Shoe Store

Omaha (AP) — A fire damaged the interior of Brucal's Shoes across the street from the Crossroads Shopping Center Tuesday evening.

Firemen extinguished the two-alarm blaze in about 35 minutes, but cleanup work caused a 90-minute traffic tieup in the congested area.

No personal injuries were reported.

Sen. Eagleton Could Support Wallace Ticket

St. Louis (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., says he could support Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, if Wallace were the Democratic presidential or vice presidential nominee in 1976.

"I don't think he's a racist anymore," Eagleton said. "I think he means it when he says he is concerned about the common man, the farmer, the truck driver, the beauty shop operator."

The Missouri Democrat said, however, that he thought it was unlikely that Wallace would be on the 1976 Democratic presidential ticket.
